Letter from the Director...

In 2013, domestic violence was responsible for 18,954 responses by law enforcement, 12,027 new domestic violence cases filed in statewide magistrate courts, and 2,254 new domestic violence cases filed in statewide district courts. Additionally, the district courts issued 5,352 domestic violence-related protection orders.

Almost two-thirds (62%) of the law enforcement-reported domestic violence incidents involved a weapon, 34% involved alcohol and/or drugs, and 43% resulted in injury to the victim; and in all its responses to domestic violence incidents, law enforcement counted 6,825 children present.

Domestic violence was the reason that 8,387 adult survivors sought shelter and/or other needed services. Domestic violence service providers served 3,252 children victim-witnesses, as well. Additionally, 1,413 offenders were provided services in offender treatment programs.

The reality is that responding agencies (law enforcement, the courts, and service providers) struggle to keep pace with the demand created by domestic violence; and this says nothing of the tangible, but less measured, demand created by domestic violence for other services (substance abuse programs, healthcare, unemployment, child custody, and childcare).

Your diligence in any role that serves to create opportunities to stop domestic violence, report it when it happens, offer treatment, make safety plans for survivors and their children, or pursue and effect criminal justice has never been more needed, nor more appreciated.

On behalf of myself and the Office of Injury Prevention, we thank you for the work you do professionally and personally that is dedicated to the safety of New Mexico citizens.

Sincerely,

Betty Caponera, Ph.D.
Director

Domestic Violence in New Mexico 2013 Highlights

Betty Caponera, Ph.D.
July 2014

Funded by the State of New Mexico, Department of Health, Office of Injury Prevention

I. INTRODUCTION

Data sources for this report include aggregate domestic violence data from statewide law enforcement and service provider agencies and individual data from district and magistrate courts provided by the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC). All data were submitted to the New Mexico Interpersonal Violence Data Central Repository for the calendar year 2013. Additionally, findings from the Survey of Violence Victimization (SVV) (referenced in appendix B) are included in the summary to inform the rate of unreported interpersonal violence incidence. Similarly, the Adult Survivor Database (referenced in appendix A) is included to inform the implications of domestic violence prevention and response.

II. SUMMARY OF FINDINGS

A. Domestic And Intimate Partner Violence Prevalence

The Survey of Violence Victimization in New Mexico (SVV) conducted in 2005 found that 1 in 4 (24%) New Mexico adults are victims of domestic violence in their lifetime. Additionally, the SVV found that approximately 1 in 5 (18%) New Mexico adults were victims of intimate partner physical violence in their lifetime: 1 in 4 women; and 1 in 10 men. (Caponera, 2006).

Nationally, the National Intimate Partner and Sexual Violence Survey (NISVS) found that 1 in 4 women in the U.S. has experienced severe physical violence by an intimate partner in her lifetime, and 1 in 3 experienced being pushed, slapped or shoved by an intimate partner. Similarly, the NISVS found that 1 in 7 men in the U.S. has experienced severe physical violence by an intimate partner in his lifetime, and 1 in 4 has been slapped, pushed or shoved by an intimate partner. (Black, Basile, et al, [NISVS] 2011).

In the 12 months prior to the SVV, 2.0% of adult men and 2.4% of adult women in New Mexico were victims of intimate partner physical violence. Nationally, in 2010 (12 months prior to the NISVS), 4.5% of men were victims of intimate partner physical violence, 2.0% victims of severe physical violence. Similarly, the NISVS reported that 3.6% of women were victims of intimate partner physical violence; 2.7% victims of severe physical violence.

B. Stalking Prevalence

In 2013, statewide law enforcement agencies identified 1,223 victims of harassment and 87 stalking victims. There were 419 new stalking and aggravated stalking charges filed in statewide district and magistrate courts. Stalking continues to be grossly undocumented by law enforcement as all other sources of data show considerable stalking prevalence nationally and in the New Mexico population.

The SVV found that 1 in 6 New Mexicans were victims of stalking in their lifetime: 1 in 4 (25%) women; and 1 in 14 (7%) men. Nationally, in 2010, the NISVS found that 1 in 6 (16%) women and 1 in 19 (5%) men has experienced stalking in their lifetime.

In the 12 months prior to the SVV, 2.0% of adult women and 0.4% of adult men were victims of stalking in New Mexico. Nationally in 2010, the NISVS found that 4% of adult women and 1.3% of adult men were victims of stalking.

C. Victim Demographics

Approximately three-quarters (71% or 10,166) of the domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement were female. Ninety-three percent of the adult-victims served by reporting domestic violence service providers were female.

New Mexico victims of domestic violence as reported by law enforcement were predominantly 19-45 years old (66%). Slightly more Hispanic survivors were represented among victims (49%) than are represented in the state population (47%). Black survivors (4%) and Native American survivors (16%) are represented significantly more among victims than their representation in the state population (2% and 10%, respectively). Similarly, adult victims as reported by domestic violence service providers were predominantly 22-40 years old (61%) and Hispanic (54%).

D. Suspect Demographics

Suspects, as reported by law enforcement, were predominantly male (74%), Hispanic (50%), and 26-35 years of age (33%). Offenders, as reported by domestic violence service providers, were predominantly male (82%), Hispanic (54%) and 22-40 years of age (65%).

The SVV found that a disproportionate number of males who were ever victims of stalking (51%), domestic violence (62%) and intimate partner violence (49%) were victimized by a male, as well. Nationally, the NISVS reported that 44.3% of males ever victims of stalking were victimized by a male.

E. Children Victim-Witnesses

Of 11,901 law enforcement reports that documented the number of incidents with children present at the scene, there were 3,775 (32%) incidents where at least one child was present.

There were a total of 6,825 total children present at the scene of domestic violence incidents as reported by law enforcement, and over half (56%) of the children who witnessed these incidents were not yet adolescents (12 years and under).

There were 5,763 domestic violence service provider reports that identified 1,878 (31.5%) domestic violence incidents where children were present at the scene, or at least one child witness for every three incidents. Over three-quarters (79%) of children victim-witnesses served are under age 12.

In New Mexico, 32% of children victim-witnesses, as reported by domestic violence service providers, experienced physical abuse from the current offender of the adult victim, and 6% experienced sexual abuse from the current offender of the adult victim. Similarly, 28% of adult victims reported being physically injured from the domestic assault and 11% experienced forced or coerced sexual activity from the current offender. Nationally, the NISVS reported that 8.7% of women who were victims of intimate partner physical violence, were also raped by their intimate partner.

F. Offense Characteristics

1. Alcohol/Drug Use Incidence

Approximately one third (34%) of domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement identified alcohol/drug use. Alcohol/drugs were used by 28% of victims served by domestic violence service providers. Half (53%) of offenders of victims served by providers used alcohol/drugs at the time of the domestic violence incident. Nationally, nearly half the female victims of intimate violence reported that the offender was drinking or using illegal drugs at the time of the crime.

2. Weapon Incidence

A weapon was used in 62% of domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement and 21% of the cases reported by victims served by domestic violence service providers. The large disparity between weapon-related assaults in domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement and victims may be explained in part, by a difference in perception between the two parties regarding what constitutes a weapon. Police officers guided by state statute regard the use of fists, feet, elbows, etc., as “personal weapons”. Victims may define weapons as objects other than those defined as “personal weapons” such as a bat, gun, knife, etc.

The SVV found that 32% of domestic violence, 33% of intimate partner violence, and 31% of stalking incidents involve a weapon; and each of these crimes was significantly more likely to involve a weapon if the victim was male, than female: domestic violence (36% male, 30% female); intimate partner violence (41% male, 30% female); and stalking (39% male, 29% female). In 2010, the NCVS reported that a weapon was used in 22% of all violent victimizations, 61% of serious violent victimizations, and 20% of aggravated and simple assaults (Criminal Victimization, 2011 [NCVS, 2010]). Six percent of all assaults involved a firearm, 4% involved a knife, and 8% involved “other” weapons.

3. Injury Incidence

Forty-three percent of law enforcement-reported domestic violence cases involved injury to the victim. Similarly, 28% of adult victims served by domestic violence service providers reported being physically injured from the domestic assault. The SVV reported that a significant proportion of those who were ever victims of domestic violence (44%), intimate partner violence (47%) and stalking (44%) were injured in their assaults. Nationally, in 2010, the NCVS reported that 29% of all victims of violence suffered an injury; and that 41% of victims of serious* violence suffered an injury.

4. Victim/Offender Relationship

Current or former intimate partner described the victim/offender relationship of 66% of law enforcement-reported cases and 84% of domestic violence service provider-reported cases in 2013. In 2010, the NCVS reported that 64% of reported and unreported domestic violence victimizations involved an intimate partner (current or former spouse, boyfriend or girlfriend). (NCVS, 2010).

5. Interpersonal Violence Reported to Law Enforcement

In 2013, 47% of domestic violence victims who went for help reported their victimization incident to law enforcement. Nationally, half of all violent victimizations were reported to law enforcement. (NCVS, 2010). The SVV revealed differences in the rate of reporting to law enforcement by the victims of the three types of interpersonal violence crimes: domestic violence (38%), intimate partner violence (41%), and stalking (34%).

6. Rates of Suspect Arrest

In 2013, 39% of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement resulted in a suspect arrest. The SVV found that arrest rates vary by the type of interpersonal violence crime. While 17% respectively, of domestic violence and intimate partner violence crimes resulted in a suspect arrest, only 5.5% of stalking crimes resulted in a suspect arrest. Moreover, in cases of domestic violence and intimate partner violence, more offender arrests were made when there was a female victim. With stalking crimes, the arrest rate was almost equal for crimes perpetrated against female (6%) and male victims (5%).

G. Domestic Violence And The Courts

1. Protection Orders

In 2013, there were 5,352 protection orders issued by statewide district courts for one or more parties involved in 3,922 new protection order cases. Of the 5,352 protection orders issued, 5% (278) were emergency protection orders, 36% (1,909) were domestic violence temporary orders of protection, and 59% (3,165) were judgments for permanent protection orders. Of the 3,165 judgments, 92% were for the initial petitioner against the respondent, and 8% were for the respondent against the initial petitioner.

The ASD revealed that half (49%) of domestic violence survivors obtained a protection order for the most recent domestic violence incident. Of the 628 survivors involved in a prior domestic violence incident as an adult, 20% (125) obtained an order of protection. With regard to prior domestic violence events, more females (20%) than males (12%) reported obtaining a protection order.

The SVV revealed roughly one-fifth to one-quarter of domestic violence (21%), intimate partner violence (23%), and stalking (26%) victims obtained a restraining order. However, results from the SVV showed that female domestic violence and intimate partner violence victims were 2.5 times more likely to obtain a restraining order than their male counterparts. Similarly, female stalking victims were almost two times more likely than males to obtain a restraining order. Furthermore, the SVV found that over half of all restraining orders in interpersonal violence crimes were violated: domestic violence (53.5%); intimate partner violence (56%); and stalking (51%); and restraining orders obtained by male intimate partner violence victims had the highest rate of violation (58%).

2. New Domestic Violence Charges Filed

Overall in 2013, there were 19,845 new domestic violence charges filed in 14,292 new cases in statewide district and magistrate courts, including the Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court. This represents 105% of the total number of domestic violence cases reported by law enforcement for the same time period.

There were a total of 14,967 domestic violence charges filed in 12,027 new cases of domestic violence in New Mexico Magistrate Courts in 2013; and 4,878 domestic violence charges filed in 2,265 new cases of domestic violence in New Mexico District Courts in 2013. All cases/charges are against a household member: battery, aggravated battery, and false imprisonment comprised most of the charges filed in both courts.

The SVV found that domestic violence and intimate partner violence victims were more likely to file criminal charges (1 in 7, respectively) than stalking victims (1 in 17). Again, domestic violence and intimate partner violence female victims were two times more likely to file charges than male victims. Conversely, female and male victims of stalking were equally likely to file criminal charges.

3. Domestic Violence Court Cases Disposed

Overall, of the 10,321 cases of domestic violence disposed in magistrate courts in 2013, 14% (1,478) obtained a guilty plea/conviction, 1% (139) obtained an acquittal, 75% (7,707) were dismissed, and 10% had prosecution proceedings that resulted in “other” dispositions (bind over charges 5% [557], transfers 3% [276], deferred charges 1% [127], and conditional discharges 1% [67]).

Similarly, of the 2,254 cases of domestic violence disposed in district courts in 2013, 38% (858) obtained a guilty plea/conviction, 1.5% (34) obtained an acquittal, 50% (1,123) were dismissed, and 11% (239) had prosecution proceedings that resulted in “other” dispositions (conditional discharges, remands, and consent decrees).

4. Dispositions by Domestic Violence Charge

a. Magistrate Court Dispositions by Domestic Violence Charge

There were 12,830 domestic violence charges disposed in 10,321 cases of domestic violence in New Mexico Magistrate Courts in 2013. Of these, 73% (9,365) were dismissed, 1% (174) were acquitted and 12% (1,558) obtained a guilty plea or conviction. Among these disposed domestic violence charges, assault against a household member (895) and stalking (93) were the charges with the greatest proportion of dismissals 80%, respectively, followed by deprivation of property 79% (52), battery against a household member 77% (5,180), harassment 75% (176), criminal damage to property 73% (723), and violation of a protective order 70% (475).

Of the convictions in magistrate courts, violation of a protective order was the charge with the greatest proportion of convictions, 18% (136), followed by criminal damage to property (168) and assault (146), with 16% respectively.

b. District Court Dispositions by Domestic Violence Charge

There were 4,653 domestic violence charges disposed in 2,254 cases of domestic violence in New Mexico District Courts in 2013. Of these disposed charges, 62% (2,877) were dismissed, 1% (62) were acquitted, and 26% (1,206) obtained a guilty plea or conviction. Among these disposed domestic violence charges, deprivation of property was the charge with the greatest proportion of dismissals, 83% (62), followed by stalking 76% (19), violation of a protective order 72% (173), and aggravated assault (245) and assault with intent to commit violence felony (8), with 67%, respectively.

Of the convictions in district courts, aggravated stalking was the charge with the greatest proportion of convictions 43% (45), followed by false imprisonment 31% (206), aggravated battery 28% (229), assault 26% (39), and battery 25% (474).

The SVV found that stalking offenders had the fewest outcomes with charges dropped (13%) compared to offenders of domestic violence (25%) and intimate partner violence (28%). Additionally, stalking offenders had the highest rate of guilty pleas or convictions (51%) over domestic violence offenders (38%) and intimate partner violence offenders (39%). Offenders of each interpersonal violence crime involving a female victim were significantly more likely to plead guilty than offenders of a male victim. The rate of acquittals for offenders of male domestic violence and intimate partner violence victims were 4 and 5 times, respectively, the rate of offender acquittals for these crimes with a female victim. Conversely, offenders of stalking with a male victim were much less likely to obtain an acquittal (<1%) than stalking offenders with a female victim (5%).

5. Sentencing In Domestic Violence Convictions

Of the 1,488 magistrate court domestic violence cases that resulted in a guilty plea or conviction, 1,426 (98%) received a jail and/or probation sentence: 6% (88) received a jail sentence, 6% (90) received probation with no jail, and 87% (1,247) received a jail and probation sentence. Criminal damage to property was the charge that received the longest average jail sentence (4.5 months), followed by deprivation of property (4.0 months), battery against a household member (3.5 months), harassment (3.2 months) and aggravated battery against a household member (2.7 months).

Of the 858 district court domestic violence cases that resulted in a guilty plea or conviction, 720 (84%) received a jail and/or probation sentence: 17% (120) received a jail sentence, 23% (165) received probation with no jail, and 435 (60%) received a jail and probation sentence. Aggravated stalking was the charge that received the longest average jail sentence (1.3 years or 15.7 months). False imprisonment was the charge with the next longest average jail sentence (1.3 years or 15.5 months), followed by aggravated battery (1.2 years). All other domestic violence charges had an average jail sentence of less than one year: aggravated assault (10.3 months), battery (8.0 months), criminal damage to property (7.9 months), harassment (6.9 months), assault with intent to commit violent felony (6.5 months), violation of a restraining order (6.2 months), and assault against a household member (5.8 months).

The SVV found that roughly two-thirds of all those sentenced for interpersonal violence crimes were sentenced to jail or prison. The average sentence length for convicted domestic violence offenders (3.04 years) was longer than that of intimate partner violence offenders (2.7 years) and stalking offenders (1.97 years). Domestic violence and intimate partner violence offenders received a longer average sentence when the victim was a female, while stalking offenders received a slightly longer average sentence when the victim was a male. Offenders sentenced for stalking a male victim actually served a longer average sentence (2.0 years) than offenders sentenced for intimate partner violence with a male victim (1.5 years).

III. IMPLICATIONS OF THE FINDINGS AND FUTURE DATA NEEDS

A. Identifying Children At Risk

Service providers reported that children were present at one out of every 3.1 domestic violence incidents in 2013, and 79% of them were under the age of twelve. The ASD revealed that children who witness abuse are four times more likely to experience child abuse, than children that do not witness abuse. It further found that most (62%) of abused children experienced multiple types of abuse, most typically at the hands of a family member (84%); and those abused as children have poorer health outcomes. Survivors abused as children compared to those not abused were six times more likely to be abused as an adult, four times more likely respectively, to be told they have a mental illness and attempt suicide, three times more likely respectively, to think about suicide and be told they have a substance abuse problem. The children served by statewide service providers (3,252) represent 48% of the number present at the scene of domestic violence incidents as reported by law enforcement (6,825). These numbers represent only children in domestic violence cases that are reported. With so much at stake, it is imperative that greater effort be made (protocols for coordinated community response and systems in place) to better identify children that witness child abuse and ensure participation in appropriate counseling services for assessment and treatment.

B. Poverty and Violence

Most of the battered women who go to a domestic violence service provider for shelter and/or other services are poor. Since there is no way to capture the number of survivors with financial means who access private services, and/or who travel out of state for services, it is not possible to determine the true proportion of survivors among all battered women who are poor. However, the ASD found that most unmarried survivors with children and those without children who went for domestic violence services in New Mexico meet federal poverty level requirements for 150% and 133% of income, as well as the more restrictive federal poverty income level.

Almost two-thirds (60%, 656) of survivors reported that they left a violent relationship at some time. Of these, one-third (32%, 212) reported that they returned. Reasons for returning to their abuser in the order of most mentions include, returned: to try to work it out, for the children, and because I was scared. A central core of the consideration for returning “for the children” is finances. Among the descriptions for scared is “no support/lack of resources”. Indeed, the ASD revealed that survivors who left a violent relationship and did not return had a median annual income $2,080 greater ($12,000) than those who left and returned ($9,920). It further found that only 42% of survivors who are eligible/receive Medicaid/TANF assistance live in their own apartment or home. Most live in shelter (23%), with a friend (29%), transitional housing (1%), or on the street (3%).

Of survivors who were involved in a prior domestic violence experience, 43% reported that they live with an offender with whom they had a prior domestic violence incident. When examined by income, survivors who live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience had a median annual income of $2,400 less ($9,600) than survivors that do not live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience ($12,000).

All of this points to the reality of the role that poverty plays in an individual’s vulnerability to living in violence. Greater emphasis must be pointed toward providing basic housing, food, clothing, transportation, and access to employment and health care for victims and their families to allow them to leave and stay away from a violent environment.

C. Mental Illness and Health and Safety Risk

Survivors with a parent with mental illness were twelve times more likely than other survivors to be told they have mental illness. Survivors with mental illness were five times more likely than survivors without to be told they have a substance abuse problem and two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident and to be injured during a violent incident. These data have implications for investigating the plausibility of developing a system for at-scene referral to mental health agencies to evaluate survivors for mental illness, both for their own sake, and the sake of their children’s future health and safety.

D. Injury Risk Factors

Law enforcement agencies reported that 43% of the domestic violence incidents in 2013 involved injury to the victim. They do not document or report injury to children. Service providers reported that 28% of survivors and 33% of children were injured in domestic violence cases that came to their attention.

From the ASD, among the types of abuse reported by the 89% of survivors who reported abuse by an intimate partner, are physical attack (60%), physical restraint (29%), threatened to be harmed or killed (34%), strangulation (12%), sexual assault (11%) and involvement of a lethal weapon (12%). Twenty percent of children present during these abusive incidents suffered the same types of abuse.

The ASD revealed that survivor risk of injury increased among survivors: a) with a substance abuse problem; b) with a mental illness; c) involved in a prior domestic violence incident; d) ever abused while pregnant; e) who are female; or f) who are Native American. This information has implications for law enforcement for assessing risk of harm to the survivor and children at the scene, and for service providers when developing safety plans with survivors.

E. Substance Abuse and Risk

As with mental illness, survivors who were told they have a substance abuse problem compared to those without, were two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident, to be involved in an incident where the abuser used alcohol/drugs, and to be injured during a domestic violence incident. Additionally, survivors with an substance abuse problem were two times more likely than those without a substance abuse problem to think about suicide, and four times more likely to attempt suicide. This information has implications for providing access to substance abuse treatment for survivors.

F. Stalking Underreporting, Technology, Training, and Victim Referral

New Mexico first enacted their stalking statute in 1997. In 2009, the legislature amended the definition of “pattern of conduct” in the statute to reflect the variety of behaviors stalkers were employing in cases across the state, including the use of technology. N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3(2010): (2) "pattern of conduct " means two or more acts, on more than one occasion, in which the alleged stalker by any action, method, device or means, directly, indirectly or through third parties, follows, monitors, surveils, threatens or communicates to or about a person. The new statute also included a court ordered program intervention as part of the punishment for a convicted stalker, “D. In addition to any punishment provided pursuant to the provisions of this section, the court shall order a person convicted of stalking to participate in and complete a program of professional counseling at the person's own expense or a domestic violence offender treatment or intervention program.” The statute change in aggravated stalking was believed to be the most promising in law enforcement’s efforts to establish a stalking charge as it allowed a charge of aggravated stalking if a perpetrator violated an existing order of protection or conditions of release: N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3.1 2010): Aggravated stalking.

A. Aggravated stalking consists of stalking perpetrated by a person: (1) who knowingly violates a permanent or temporary order of protection issued by a court, except that mutual violations of such orders may constitute a defense to aggravated stalking; (2) in violation of a court order setting conditions of release and bond.

Even with new stalking policies, there are still too few cases of stalking recognized and charged as such by law enforcement agencies throughout the state. In the 12 months prior to the Survey of Violence Victimization (SVV), 2.0% of adult women and 0.4% of adult men were victims of stalking in New Mexico. In 2012, the ASD found that 26% of survivors reported that they were stalked by their abuser. Nationally in 2010, the NISVS found that 4% of adult women and 1.3% of adult men were victims of stalking. Yet in 2013, statewide law enforcement agencies identified 1,223 victims of harassment and 87 stalking victims.

There are numerous administrative and procedural issues that affect accurate reporting of domestic violence and stalking incidents ranging from whether and how police offense incident reports are written to how these reports are entered into law enforcement databases or otherwise counted.

The issues surrounding identification of stalking incidents and victims are particularly worrisome. This is explained in part by the fact that most stalking cases are labeled other crimes (harassment, vandalism, destruction of property, arson, trespassing, car theft, etc.) and are therefore not captured. The failure to differentiate between stalking victims and victims of isolated crimes means that many stalking victims are not getting referred for appropriate services. This is a significant problem as the SVV found that 87% of stalking victims also reported being a victim of domestic violence, other physical attack, and/or sexual assault. These victims and their children are at greater health and safety risk and need to be referred for appropriate services; and these types of referrals are not likely to happen as a result of a trespass, vandalism, or other similarly labeled isolated crime incident. It is imperative to provide necessary training to all law enforcement officers, administrative personnel, and executive personnel whose policies guide law enforcement procedure regarding the description, documentation, and data entry of stalking crimes. In 2010, APD and a few other law enforcement agencies implemented new technology for officers at the scene to access information regarding prior offenses and protection order information. It is clear that any improvement that this technology has made failed to translate to the improved identification and referral of stalking victims, and the documentation of stalking incidents.

G. Evidence Supporting the Focus on Early Intervention to Prevent Domestic Violence

In 2013, two-thirds (66%) of the law enforcement incidents documenting the victim/offender relationship, were perpetrated by a current or former intimate partner, 49% of these by current or former boyfriends/girlfriends who are or were dating or living together. Similarly, 87% of adult victims who sought services from a domestic violence service provider were assaulted by a current or former intimate partner, 34% of these were dating or living together. The SSV found that two-thirds (66.5%) of domestic violence incidents were perpetrated by current or former intimate partners, and one-third of these were dating or living together. Further, stalking behaviors begin in adolescence and the reported incidence of adolescent stalking is almost twice that of adolescent intimate partner violence. The high proportion of interpersonal violence cases perpetrated by adolescent offenders, demonstrates that true prevention requires early education initiatives on building healthy relationships during adolescence.

H. Sexual Assault Prevention and Treatment for Domestic Violence Child and Adult Victims

In 2012, the ASD found many children experienced sexual abuse (8%) at the hands of their adult-victim's offender. Similarly, 11% of adult domestic violence victims seeking counseling services were sexually assaulted by their offender.

The rates of sexual abuse of adults and children are grossly underreported. Findings from the SVV reveal that almost half of the adults in New Mexico who were ever a victim of domestic violence, intimate partner violence or stalking were also sexually assaulted. Of those that were sexually assaulted, 45% were victimized by the age of 12. Further, the NISVS reported that 8.7% of women that were ever victims of intimate partner physical violence, were also raped by their intimate partner. This suggests that effective prevention and treatment programs for domestic violence victims must include components of sexual assault prevention and treatment or must provide referrals to appropriate sexual assault services.

I. Interpersonal Violence Prevention and Advocacy for Males

In New Mexico in 2013, 29% of domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement were males. Findings from the SVV demonstrated that 1 in 7 males in New Mexico has been the victim of domestic violence in his lifetime, 1 in 10 a victim of intimate partner violence, and 1 in 14 a victim of stalking. More outreach must be done to identify male victims of interpersonal violence to offer prevention and treatment programs specific to males.

J. Providing Offender Treatment Programs

In New Mexico, 74% of suspects identified by law enforcement and 82% of offenders identified by domestic violence service providers in 2013, were male. Findings from the SVV revealed that 83% of stalking offenders and 80% of domestic violence and intimate partner violence offenders respectively, are male. Even when males are the victims in interpersonal violence crimes, half to two-thirds (depending on the crime) are being victimized by a male. Perhaps greater outcomes in domestic violence prevention may be realized through greater availability of offender prevention and therapeutic programs that include strategies for addressing aggression in male socialization.

K. Evidence Supporting the Need to Identify Domestic Violence Victims in the Healthcare Setting

In 2013, law enforcement reported that 43% of adult victims were physically injured during a domestic violence incident. Similarly, statewide service providers reported that 28% of adults and 33% of children were physically injured by the adult victim's offender during a domestic violence incident. The SVV found that 44% of domestic violence victims were injured and over one-third of them sought medical treatment. This suggests that New Mexico healthcare facilities may play an important role in both, the identification of domestic violence victims and their referral to appropriate services.

Patients that are seen in the healthcare/emergency room setting with a domestic violence-related injury are typically not reported to law enforcement and represent a substantial gap in reporting. While many healthcare facilities use screening tools to identify patients who are victims of domestic violence, no standardized monitoring system to reliably document the number of these individuals currently exists. Methods to determine healthcare utilization by victims of violence through e-codes or billing databases have been unsuccessful and are unreliable at best, due to definitional problems of the codes, practitioner discretion and inconsistencies in naming injuries, and the insurance-related intentions of billing databases. The need to rectify these problems is underscored by findings from the SVV which revealed substantial co-morbidity with domestic violence victims with regard to serious disabling injury and chronic mental health problems.

The process for collecting standardized domestic violence data from statewide medical facilities is not yet established. Since many times the first, and perhaps only contact a victim may have with the "helping system" is through a hospital emergency department or physicians' office, this creates a significant void in the Central Repository data and represents a major obstacle in accurately defining the scope and nature of domestic violence in our state. Moreover, until better protocols are established for identifying patient visits associated with interpersonal violence, a significant portion of the total cost of interpersonal violence to individuals, their communities, and the state cannot be estimated.

L. Evidence Supporting the Need for Culturally Competent Services for Native Americans

While more Native American survivors completed college (50%) than survivors of other races, it is also true that more Native American survivors were low income - eligible to receive Medicaid (48%) and TANF (20%) assistance or both (16%); more lived in shelter before as an adult (22%); more incurred injury (56%) than other races in domestic violence incidents; and, had a mean number of children (2.9) higher than all other races (2.7). All of this points to the need for specifically targeted interventions for efficacious advocacy for Native American survivors and their children.

M. Evidence Supporting the Need for Better Court Data on Domestic Violence

Within the last two years, the Central Repository has worked with the AOC directly and through the Point of Contact Attorney (a VAWA funded position to serve as liaison between the courts and domestic violence providers) to obtain better quality data on interpersonal violence crimes. This effort has led to an expansion of the domestic violence crimes captured, which now include false imprisonment, criminal damage to property, deprivation of property, harassment, and violation of a restrictive order, in addition to the more typical battery/aggravated battery, assault/aggravated assault and stalking/aggravated stalking charges.

Still, quality protection order information is needed to determine the efficacy of protection orders, emergency protection orders, their rate of enforcement, and the consequences for violating protection orders for offenders and victims.

It is important to obtain better court data because evidence of currently available data demonstrates that there has been a steady decrease in the rate of domestic violence convictions in statewide district and magistrate courts. In 2013, the conviction rates of disposed domestic violence cases in district (38%) and magistrate courts (14%) are among the lowest rates of conviction over the last eight years.

Without better data from the courts vital information such as, why the dismissal rate in domestic violence cases has increased and why the rate of conviction for domestic violence cases has decreased, remains unknown. Answers to these questions will serve to improve the efficacy of legal advocacy for domestic violence victims.

N. Interpersonal Violence and Needed Changes in Law Enforcement, Prosecution and The Courts To Reduce The Risk of Harm for Male and Female Victims

Findings from the SVV demonstrate that female victims are more likely than male victims to report their offense, two times more likely to file criminal charges against their offenders and are more likely to get a restraining order against their offenders, even though interpersonal crimes with male victims involve more alcohol/drugs, weapon use, and more serious disabling injury. Additionally, while half of all restraining orders are violated, male victims of intimate partner violence crimes are more likely to have a restraining order violated, less likely to have their offenders arrested, and significantly more likely that the charges against their offenders will be dropped or the offenders will obtain an acquittal. Further, if their offenders are convicted, offenders of male victims are more likely to serve less time in jail or prison than offenders of female victims.

While all of the system failures that contribute to the high risk of harm for female victims of interpersonal violence are widely known, it is clear from these findings that interpersonal violence is dangerous for males, as well. While both genders do not utilize system protections as they should, male victims are even less likely than female victims to do so; and even when system protections are sought for intimate partner violence, violations of restraining orders are more frequent, and convictions of their offenders less frequent, for male victims. All of this speaks to: 1) the need for early education to correct misconceptions in gender socialization; 2) greater community education to increase awareness of the incidence and risk of interpersonal violence among males; and 3) comprehensive training of law enforcement, prosecutors and judges regarding the high risk of harm for men and women victims of interpersonal violence, and the development of protocols in their respective disciplines aimed at reducing the likelihood of harm, disability and death of all interpersonal violence victims.

Closing Comments

The aforementioned improvements will ultimately be required to answer the type of domestic violence questions that are most critical in guiding public policy decisions, program development and the most effective allocation of resources. To this end, the Central Repository Director will continue to pursue collaborations with statewide agencies (both current participants and non-participants) and the NM Department of Health and the Department of Public Safety to develop a process for enhancing the present data collection system.

I. INTRODUCTION

From 2010 to 2012, the Adult Survivor Database (ASD) was developed in collaboration with the New Mexico Coalition Against Domestic Violence to capture research information on individual domestic violence survivors who seek assistance from statewide domestic violence service providers. The individual data make possible the study of existing relationships between factors that influence risk and outcomes of domestic violence victimization. Findings from the ASD were first published in the 2013 Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence XII, report. To review these findings see Appendix A: Life Experiences of Adult Survivors of Domestic Violence. These adult survivor data will be analyzed every three years to update the research information learned from this valuable resource.

Section One of this report presents an analysis of 2013 aggregate law enforcement and service provider domestic violence data and individual data from the Administration Office of the Courts which are all submitted to the New Mexico Interpersonal Violence Data Central Repository.

Section Two presents a discussion of the implications of the findings presented herein and in the findings of the ASD. It includes a review of the data limitations to highlight future data needs.

Section Three presents an analysis of 16 important domestic violence variables for each individual county, so that the reader can access important domestic violence trends in his/her county at a glance.

The Department of Health, Office of Injury Prevention obtained funds to conduct a statewide violence victimization survey in 2005. The survey was conducted by Schulman, Ronca and Bucuvalas, Inc. (SRBI) a national research organization. The purpose of the survey was to obtain state estimates of the prevalence and nature of victimization among adults in New Mexico. The Survey of Violence Victimization in New Mexico (SVV) included a statewide random sample of 4,000 adults aged 18 and older (2000 males and 2000 females). Interviewing for the survey was conducted between December 6, 2005 and January, 22 2006.

Preliminary findings from the SVV were published in Incidence and Nature of Domestic Violence In New Mexico VI, July 2006. A summary of the findings from the SVV is found in Appendix B. It offers baseline statewide rates of the incidence and prevalence of domestic violence, intimate partner violence, and stalking, together with a discussion of the findings on selected characteristics of these interpersonal violence crimes. Selected findings from the survey can be found in the Fact Sheet of this report, as well.

The Central Repository is supported by the State of New Mexico Department of Health, Office of Injury Prevention, the Human Services Department, Behavioral Health Services Division, and the New Mexico Crime Victims Reparation Commission Violence Against Women STOP Grant Program (VAWA). It was established in 1998 to house data submitted from a variety of agencies statewide (law enforcement, district and magistrate courts, and domestic violence service providers) that deal with the issue of domestic violence. In 2001, the Central Repository began capturing statewide sexual assault data, as well. To this end, data from rape crisis centers, statewide mental health centers, and sexual assault nurse examiner units (SANEs) that provide services for sexual assault victims are also submitted to the Central Repository.

SECTION ONE: ANALYSIS OF 2013 DOMESTIC VIOLENCE LAW ENFORCEMENT, SERVICE PROVIDER, AND COURT DATA FROM THE CENTRAL REPOSITORY

I. DEFINITIONS

Domestic violence incidence as determined by law enforcement include all incidents of assault, aggravated assault, battery, and aggravated battery as outlined in the “Crimes Against Household Members Act” in statutes 30-3-10 through 3-3-18. Full definitions are found in Appendix C.

Data submitted from law enforcement agencies are used to determine statewide domestic violence reported incidence and the county rates of reported domestic violence.

Domestic violence cases as determined by domestic violence service providers include all adult victims who are accepted as clients by the providers for delivery of services. Data on children victim-witnesses and offenders served by domestic violence service providers are also analyzed and presented herein. None of the cases served by the domestic violence service providers are considered in the county reported rates of incidence to avoid possible duplication of reporting.

Domestic violence data from all magistrate and district courts include codes that capture aggravated assault, aggravated battery, aggravated stalking, assault, battery, stalking, assault with intent to commit a violent felony, criminal damage to property, deprivation of property, false imprisonment, violation of a protective order, and harassment- all against a household member. These codes are extracted from the Administrative Office of the Courts Judicial Information System.

Currently, standardized data from each aforementioned discipline are submitted to the Central Repository on a quarterly basis. The data from the Central Repository analyzed for this report covers domestic violence data for the period 1/1/13 – 12/31/13.

II. LAW ENFORCEMENT AND SERVICE PROVIDER DATA FINDINGS

A. Domestic Violence Incidents in 2013 That Were Identified by Law Enforcement

There were 102 law enforcement agencies that submitted domestic violence data to the Central Repository during 2013 (see Appendix D). Data from each participating agency was extracted from police offense incident reports and submitted in aggregate form on the standardized Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Data Collection Form (see Appendix E).

The total number of reports for each variable analyzed from law enforcement vary as all questions may not be answered on each report submitted. The number of reports considered for each question analyzed is stated throughout the report as the findings on each variable are discussed.

F. Domestic Violence Victims Served by Domestic Violence Service Providers

There were 29 domestic violence service providers that submitted data to the Central Repository for 2013 (see Appendix I). Aggregate data from each participating agency was extracted from client intake information and submitted on the standardized Domestic Violence Service Agencies Data Collection Form (see Appendix J).

The total number of reports for each variable analyzed from service providers vary as all questions may not be answered on each report submitted. The number of reports considered for each question analyzed is stated throughout the report as the findings on each variable are discussed.

1. Number Seeking Services

There were 13,052 new clients served during 2013, which is a slight (2%) decrease in the number of clients served in 2012 (13, 336).

▶ Number of Adult Victims, Children, and Offenders Served for All Counties	Table 7
▶ Number of Adult Victims Served by Agency	Table 8
▶ Five-Year Trends of All Served for Each County	Section 3B
▶ Total Number of Adult Victims Served by Service Providers	8,387
▶ Total Number of Children Victim/Witnesses Served by Service Providers	3,252
▶ Total Number of Offenders Treated by Service Providers	1,413
▶ Number of Offenders Treated by Agency	Table 9

An analysis was conducted comparing the number of adult victims served to the number of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement (in counties with the law enforcement agency from the largest city reporting, and where the direct service provider reported in all four quarters of 2013). This analysis revealed that Union County had the fewest number of victims receiving services relative to the number of incidents reported to police (1 out of 23.8), followed by Dona Ana County (1 out of 6.6), and McKinley County (1 out of 5.6). See Figure 4.

Adult victims who went for help in 2013 (8,387) represent 48% of domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement (17,526). This is greater than the 41% of law enforcement victims represented by adult victims served in 2012.

► Five-Year Trends in The Percent of Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Incidents Represented by The Number of Adult Victims Served for Individual Counties

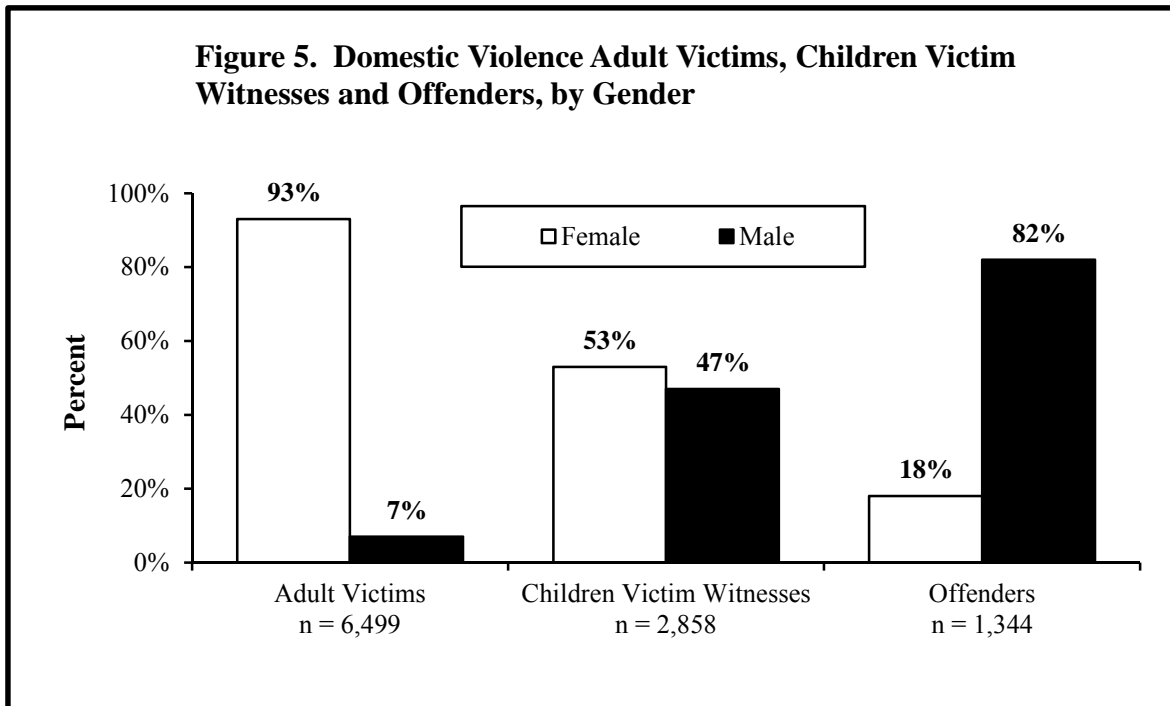

Section 3C

Offenders who went for treatment (1,413) represent 9% of the domestic violence suspects identified by law enforcement (16,033). This is a 1% decrease over those represented in 2012.

2. Gender of Those Served

Survivor gender was documented in 6,499 of 8,387 adult victims served. Ninety-three percent (6,039) of the adult victims served were female. Conversely, 82% (1,102) of the 1,344 reports that documented offender gender, reported the offender was male. Gender was documented 2,858 of the 3,252 children victim-witnesses served. Slightly more female children (53%) than male children, (47%) witnessed the abuse of an adult victim. See Figure 5.

3. Ages of Those Served

The age of the adult victim was documented in 6,025 provider reports. Among adult victims, 61% (3,662) were predominately 22-40 years of age, 27% (1,618) were 41-59 years of age, and 8% (476) were 18-21 years of age. Victims ages 60 and older comprised 5% (256) of all adult victims served. See Figure 6.

The age of children victim-witnesses was documented in 2,919 of the children served. Forty-four percent (1,292) of the children victim-witnesses were <6 years old, 35% (1,032) were 6-11 years old, 20% (594) were 12-17 years old, and <1% (1) were 18-21 years old. See Figure 7.

4. Race/Ethnicity of Those Served

The race/ethnicity of the adult victim was identified in 6,180 reports. For a comparison of adult victim racial/ethnic distribution to the racial/ethnic composition of New Mexico, see Figure 8.

Hispanics comprised 60% (1,641) of the 2,745 children victim-witnesses where race/ethnicity was documented, followed by 18% respectively, of Whites (non-Hispanics) (482) and Native Americans (488), 4% (105) Blacks, 1% (22) “other” and <1% (7) Asians. Refer to Figure 8.

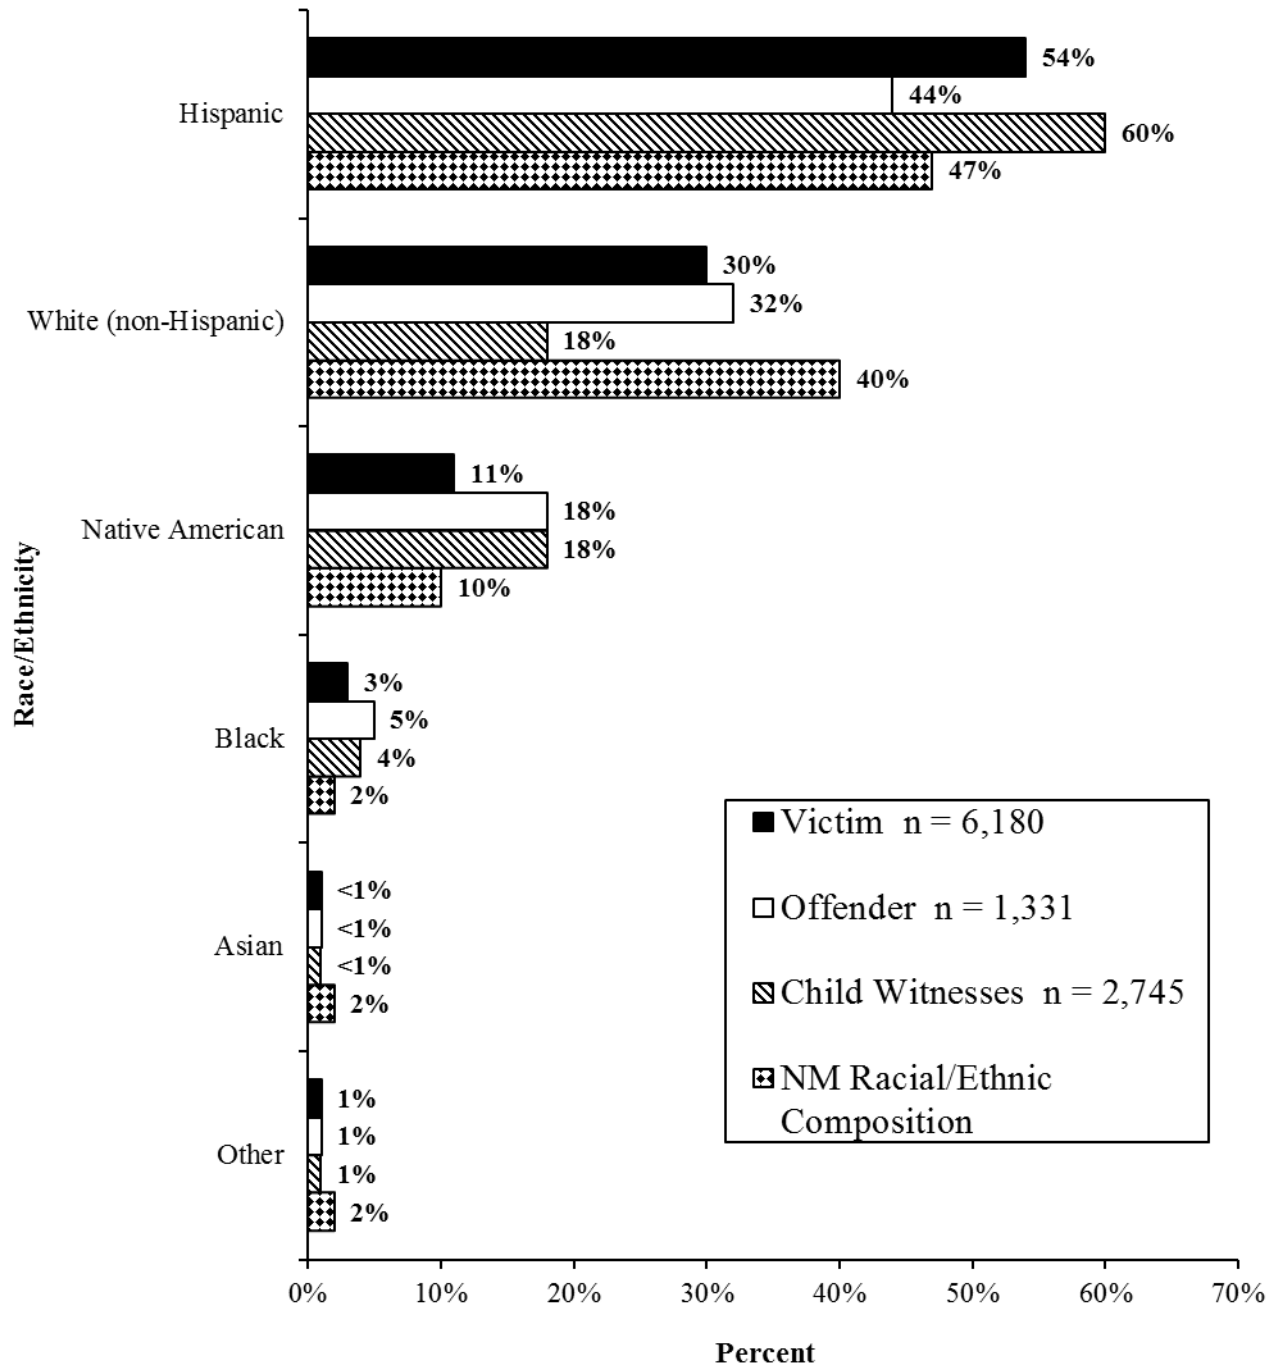

Of the 1,331 offender reports that documented offender race/ethnicity, the racial/ethnic group with the greatest number of offenders represented were Hispanics 44% (589), followed by Whites (non-Hispanics), 32% (421), Native Americans 18% (246), Blacks 5% (64), “other” race/ethnicity 1% (9) and Asians, <1(2). L. Domestic Violence Incidents That Have Children Present At The Scene

- ▶ Number of Service Provider Reports That Documented Whether Children Were Present 5,763
- ▶ Number of Service Provider Domestic Violence Cases with Children Present 1,878 (31.5%)
- ▶ Number of Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Reports Documenting Status Of Children Present 11,901
- ▶ Number of Law Enforcement Domestic Violence Incidents with Children Present 3,775 (32%)
- ▶ Total Number of Children Present at the Scene of Domestic Violence Incidents 6,825

As reported by law enforcement, the ages of the children witnesses were documented in 5,585 cases. Over one-third (38%) of these children were under 6 years of age, 18% were 6-9 years of age, and 13% were ages 10 - 12. Therefore, over two-thirds (69%) of the children who witnessed domestic violence incidents were not yet adolescents. Adolescents between the ages of 13 - 17 comprised 23% of the children at the domestic violence scenes, while young adults, 18-21, comprised 8% of those who witnessed domestic abuse. See Figure 12.

There were 11,862 law enforcement-reported domestic violence incidents that documented both the number of incidents with children present and the number of children present. Of these incidents, 3,745 had children present and the total number of children present was 6,804 or 1.8 children per incident. The analysis of these incidents allows for a more accurate determination of the average number of children present when children witness family violence incidents.

M. Injury and Sexual Assault Among Adult Victims and Children Who Sought Help

Of 5,686 service provider reports, 1,581 (28%) adult victims reported being physically injured from the domestic assault. Similarly, there were 4,994 provider reports that identified 532 (11%) adult victims who experienced forced or coerced sexual activity from the current offender. See Figure 13.

There were 1,875 service provider reports that identified 597 (32%) children victim-witnesses that experienced physical abuse from the current offender of the adult victim. Similarly, there were 1,390 provider reports that identified 89 (6%) children victim-witnesses who experienced sexual abuse from the current offender of the adult victim. Refer to Figure 13.

N. Victim/Suspect Relationship

Of 16,033 suspects reported by law enforcement, their relationship to the victim was documented among 10,917. Of these, a total of 45% were boyfriend/girlfriend and 2%, ex-boyfriend/ex-girlfriend. The victim/suspect relationships in 17% were spouse (15%) and ex-spouse (2%). Relatives accounted for 24% of identified victim/suspect relationships. See Figure 14.

The victim/offender relationship was documented in 5,291 service provider reports. Over half (57%) of offenders were intimate partners of their victims with the following relationship descriptions: married (23%), living together (22%) or dating (12%). One-quarter (26%) of offenders were ex-intimate partners of their victims, with the following relationship descriptions: separated (6%), divorced (6%), or ex-partner (14%). Another 10% of offenders were a family member of the victim, and 7% other non-family members of the victim. See Figure 15.

O. Length of Victims/Offender Relationships

There were 4,060 reports that documented the length of relationship between the victim and offender. Most victims reported a relationship duration of 3-5 years (22%), followed by those in relationship for 6-10 years (20%), 11-20 years (18%), 1-2 years (17%), less than one year (12%) and over 20 years (11%). See Figure 16.

P. Victims and Offenders Abused As Children

In 2013, there were 1,159 offender reports that documented past abuse. Of these, 40% (468) of offenders reported experiencing abuse as a child. However, when victims were asked if their offender was abused as a child, 52% (835 of 1,595) reported that their offender experienced abuse as a child. See Figure 17.

Past victim abuse and/or the witnessing of abuse as a child was documented in 2,532 provider reports. Almost half (48% or 1,209) of adult victims reported experiencing abuse as a child. Refer to Figure 17. Additionally, 39% or 2,271 of 5,764 of adult victims reported experiencing at least one prior domestic violence incident as an adult.

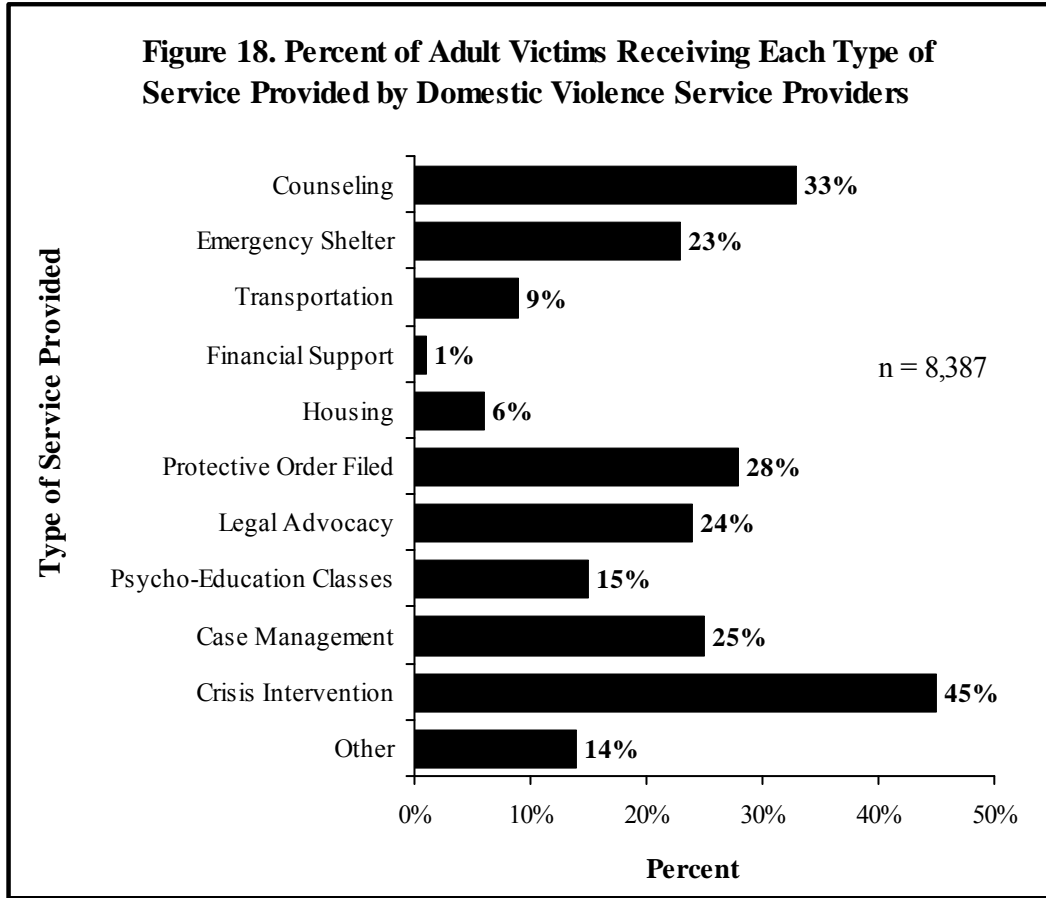

Q. Sources of Adult Victims’ Referrals for Help and The Services They Receive

Most adult victim referrals to service providers were by law enforcement (27%), self-referrals (17%) and client referred (6%). Additionally, service providers throughout the state responded to 13,108 crisis/hotline calls. The Domestic Violence Resource Center (Albuquerque) responded to the most crisis calls 53% (6,902) followed by SAFE House (Albuquerque) 9% (1,216), Haven House 7% (889) and Family Crises Center 5% (644).

III. DISTRICT AND MAGISTRATE COURT FINDINGS

The Central Repository in collaboration with the AOC was able to identify and extract valuable district and magistrate court data regarding new domestic violence charges and cases filed in 2013, charges and cases disposed in 2013, the type of disposition outcomes for domestic violence charges and cases, and sentencing information. Bernalillo County Metropolitan Court data was recently added to the AOC case management system and is included in the analysis for this report. County totals on domestic violence charges filed, and conviction rates on domestic violence cases disposed in district and magistrate courts for 2013, are found in Section Three, Tables M – P.

A. District Courts

1. New Domestic Violence Charges and Cases Filed in District Courts, 2013

There were a total of 4,878 domestic violence charges filed in 2,265 new cases of domestic violence in New Mexico District Courts in 2013. See Appendix K for a list of participating statewide district courts. All cases/charges are against a household member. Battery (1,878) comprised most (38%) of the charges, followed by aggravated battery 20% (997), false imprisonment 13% (629), aggravated assault 8% (385), and criminal damage to property, 7% (347). See Figure 22.

Over one-half (57%) of all domestic violence charges were filed in Bernalillo County. Dona Ana County comprised 7% of domestic violence charges filed, followed by San Juan County (5%). Curry, Otero, Sandoval, and Santa Fe counties comprised 3% respectively, of all domestic violence charges filed in 2013, see Table 27.

2. Domestic Violence Charges Disposed in District Courts, 2013

There were 4,653 domestic violence charges disposed in 2,254 cases of domestic violence in New Mexico District Courts in 2013. Of the disposed domestic violence charges most (40%, 1,866) were battery, followed by aggravated battery 18% (819), and false imprisonment 14% (656). See Figure 23 for the proportion of each type of domestic violence crime disposed in 2013.

Slightly over half (57%) of all domestic violence charges were disposed in Bernalillo County. Dona Ana County comprised 9% of disposed domestic violence charges, followed by San Juan County (4%), Otero, Sandoval, and Valencia counties (3%, respectively) and Chaves, Curry, Lea, San Miguel and Santa Fe counties (2%, respectively). See Table 28.

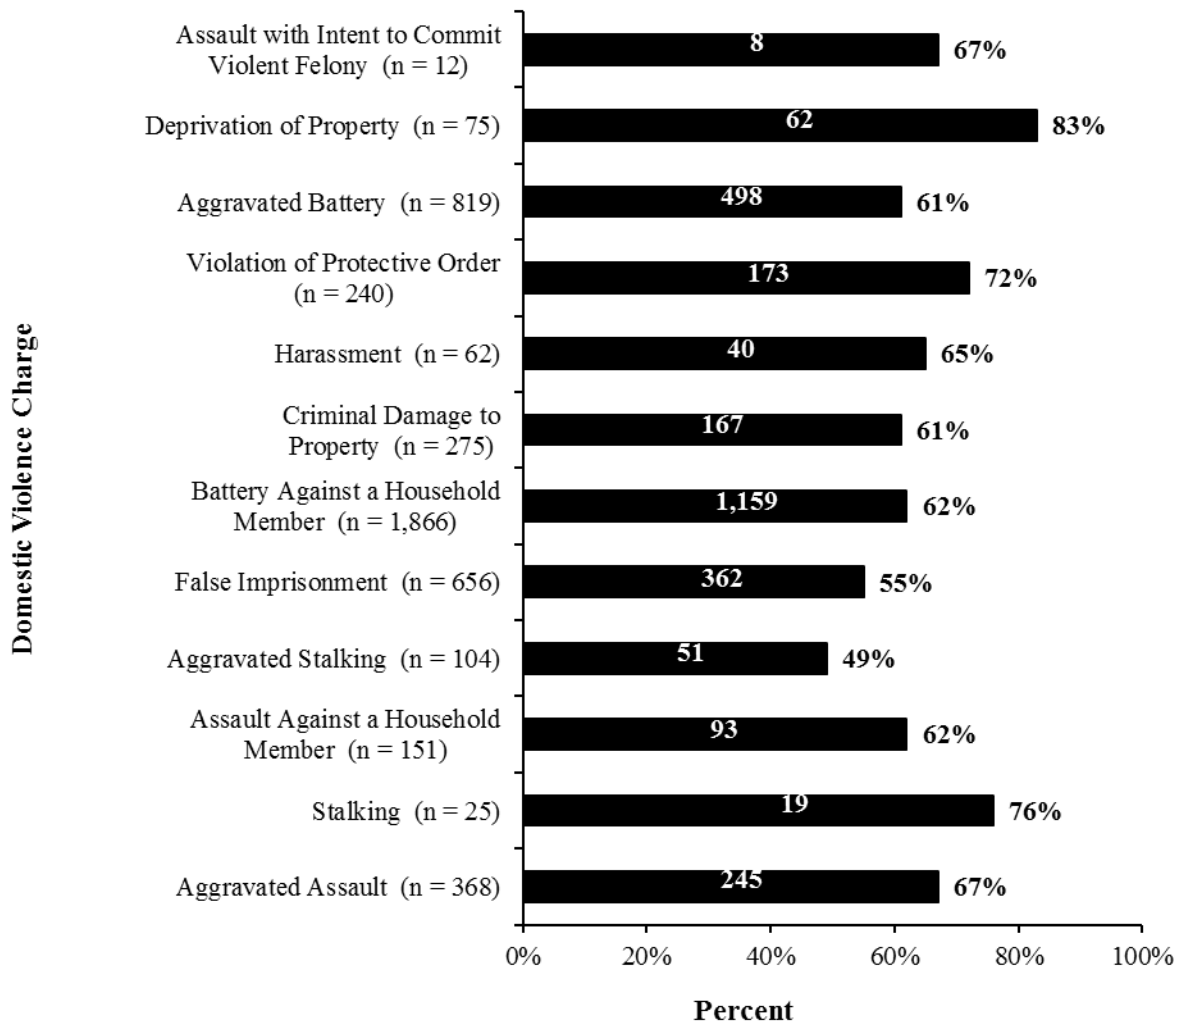

Of the 4,653 domestic violence charges disposed, 62% (2,877) were dismissed, 1% (62) were acquitted, and 26% (1,206) obtained a guilty plea or conviction. The remaining 12% were charges with “other” dispositions such as conditional discharges 4% (184), remands 1% (47), consent decrees 2% (111), deferred charges 3% (161), transfers 0.01% (3), or “other disposition” 0.04% (2) which demonstrated prosecution proceedings that did not result in a dismissal, conviction, or acquittal. See Figure 24.

There were 44 unique charges comprising 12 unique categories of domestic violence crimes among the 4,653 disposed district court domestic violence charges in 2013. Dispositions (dismissals, acquittals, convictions) were examined by type of domestic violence charge. Deprivation of property was the charge with the greatest proportion of dismissals, 83% (62), followed by stalking 76% (19), violation of a protective order 72% (173), and aggravated assault (245) and assault with intent to commit violence felony (8), with 67%, respectively. Figure 25 illustrates the proportion of each charge that was dismissed.

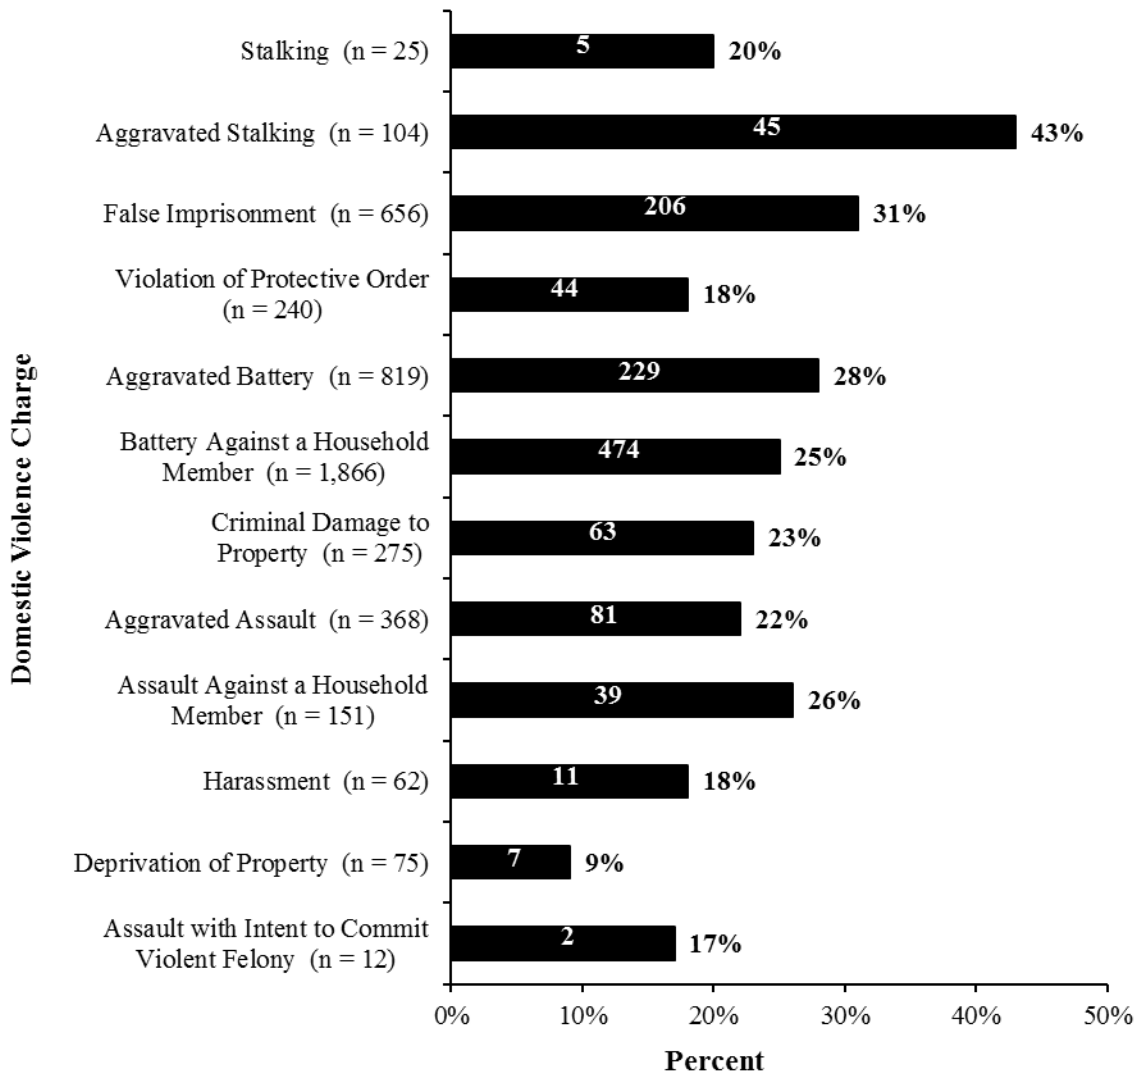

Similarly, when guilty pleas/convictions were examined by type of domestic violence charge, aggravated stalking was the charge with the greatest proportion of convictions 43% (45), followed by false imprisonment 31% (206), aggravated battery 28% (229), assault 26% (39), and battery 25% (474). Figure 26 illustrates the proportion of each charge that obtained a guilty plea or conviction.

There were 62 domestic violence charges that were acquitted. When acquittals were examined by type of domestic violence charge, assault with intent to commit violent felony was the charge with the greatest proportion of acquittals 8% (1), followed by deprivation of property 3% (2). Two percent respectively, of aggravated battery (14), false imprisonment (12), and aggravated assault (7) charges obtained acquittals. One percent respectively, of battery (23) and criminal damage to property (2) charges obtained an acquittal, and less than one percent (0.4%) of violation of restraining order charges (1) obtained an acquittal.

Dispositions of domestic violence charges were examined by district court. When dismissals were examined by district court (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence charges), Santa Rosa District Court had the greatest proportion of dismissals (83%), followed by Albuquerque District Court (70%), and Gallup, Silver City, and Tierra Amarilla district courts (63%, respectively). Conversely, Carlsbad District Court had the fewest domestic violence charges dismissed (14%), followed by Estancia District Court (17%) and Grants District Court (24%). See Table 29 for the proportion of domestic violence charges dismissed for all district courts.

When guilty pleas/convictions were examined by district court (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence charges), Grants District Court had the greatest proportion of convictions (76%), followed by Carlsbad and Estancia District Courts (67%, respectively), and Deming District Court (58%). Conversely, Santa Rosa District Court had the fewest convictions of domestic violence charges (8%), followed by Socorro District Court (9%), Silver City District Court (13%), Deming District Court (18%) and Las Vegas (15%). See Table 30 for the proportion of domestic violence charges that obtained a guilty plea/conviction for all district courts.

For the disposition outcomes on specific domestic violence charges for each district court, see Tables D1 - D33.

3. Domestic Violence Cases Disposed in District Courts in 2013

Of the 2,254 cases of domestic violence disposed in district courts in 2013, 38% (858) obtained a guilty plea/conviction, 1.5% (34) obtained an acquittal, 50% (1,123) were dismissed, and 11% (239) had prosecution proceedings that resulted in “other” dispositions (conditional discharges, remands, and consent decrees).

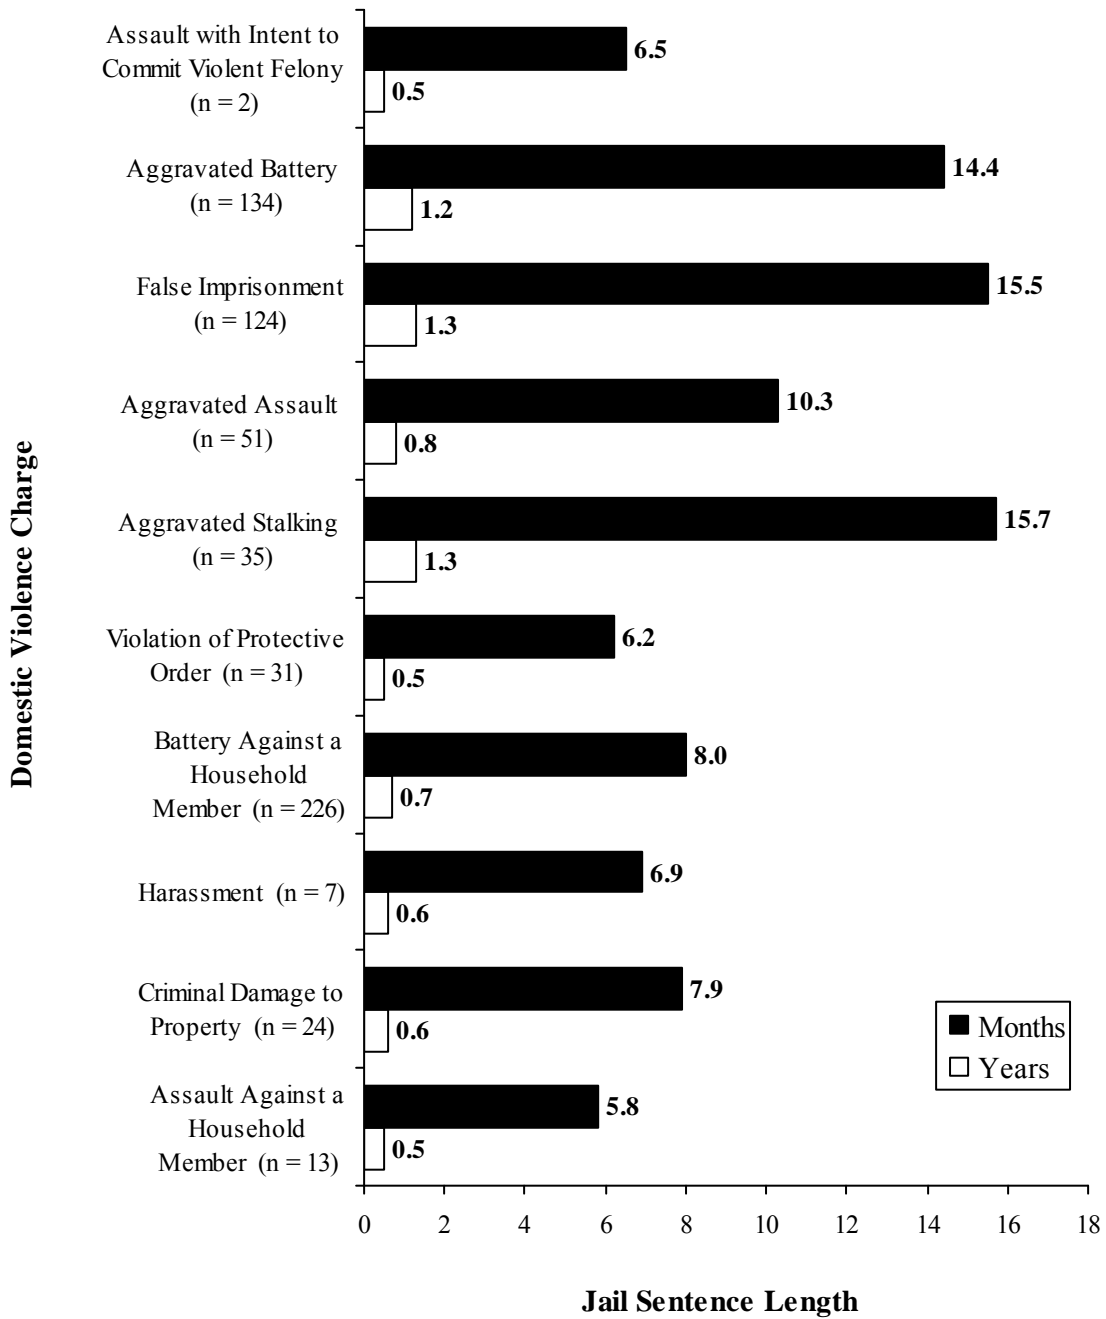

Table 31 illustrates the number of cases dismissed, convicted, and acquitted for each district court.

An examination of dismissed cases by district court (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence cases) shows that Reserve District Court had the highest dismissal rate of their disposed domestic violence cases (94%), followed by Mora District Court (89%), Bernalillo District Court (64%) and Tierra Amarilla District Court (62%). See Table 32.

Similarly, an examination of cases that obtained a guilty plea/conviction by district court (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence cases) shows that Grants District Court had the highest conviction rate of their disposed domestic violence cases (73%), followed by Deming and Los Lunas district courts (71%, respectively), Estancia District Court (70%) and Carlsbad District Court (69%). Conversely, Mora District Court had the fewest domestic violence cases with a conviction (4%), followed by Reserve District Court (16%), Socorro District Court (15%), and Silver City and Santa Rosa district courts (17%, respectively). See Table 33.

Of the 858 domestic violence cases that resulted in a guilty plea or conviction, 720 reported jail and/or probation sentencing: 17% (120) received a jail sentence, 23% (165) received probation with no jail, and 60% (435) received a jail and probation sentence. Aggravated stalking was the charge that received the longest average jail sentence (1.3 years or 15.7 months). False imprisonment was the charge with the next longest average jail sentence (1.3 years or 15.5 months), followed by aggravated battery (1.2 years). All other domestic violence charges had an average jail sentence of less than one year: aggravated assault (10.3 months), battery (8.0 months), criminal damage to property (7.9 months), harassment (6.9 months), assault with intent to commit violent felony (6.5 months), violation of a restraining order (6.2 months), and assault against a household member (5.8 months). See Figure 27 for the average length of jail sentence for each type of domestic violence charge disposed in 2013.

4. District Court Protection Orders Issued

In 2013, there were 5,352 protection orders issued by statewide district courts for one or more parties involved in 3,922 new protection order cases. Of the 5,352 protection orders issued, 5% (278) were emergency protection orders, 36% (1,909) were domestic violence temporary orders of protection, and 59% (3,165) were judgments for permanent protection orders. Of the 3,165 judgments, 92% were for the initial petitioner against the respondent, and 8% were for the respondent against the initial petitioner.

Of the 278 emergency protection orders issued in 2013, 71% (198) were issued in Bernalillo County, followed by 19% (54) in Dona Ana County, and 4% (10) in Luna County. Grant (4), Quay (2) and San Juan (2) counties issued 2% respectively, of all emergency protection orders; and Chaves, Curry, De Baca, Hidalgo, McKinley, San Miguel, Socorro, and Taos counties issued 1 emergency protection order, respectively. See Table 34 for a list of emergency protection orders issued by county.

Of the 1,909 domestic violence temporary orders of protection issued in 2013, most (35% or 659) were issued by Chaves County, followed by Otero County 19% (361), Sandoval County 17% (329), Lea County 13% (243), and San Miguel County 10% (192). See Table 35 for a list of domestic violence temporary orders of protection issued by county.

Of the 3,165 judgments for permanent protection orders issued in 2013, most (38% or 1,202) were issued by Bernalillo County. Dona Ana County issued 7% (217) of all permanent protection orders, followed by Santa Fe (196) and Chaves (178) counties (6%, respectively), and Sandoval County 5% (157). See Table 36 for a list of permanent protection orders issued by county.

B. Magistrate Courts

1. New Domestic Violence Charges and Cases Filed in Magistrate Courts, 2013

There were a total of 14,967 domestic violence charges filed in 12,027 new cases of domestic violence in New Mexico Magistrate Courts in 2013. See Appendix L for a list of participating magistrate courts. All cases/charges are against a household member. Battery comprised most (53% or 7,962) of the charges, followed by aggravated battery 11% (1,622), criminal damage to property 8% (1,230), assault (1,106) and false imprisonment (992) with 7% respectively, violation of a protection order 6% (845) and aggravated assault 4% (568). See Figure 28.

Bernalillo County comprised most (36% or 5,409) of all the magistrate-metropolitan court domestic violence charges, followed closely by Dona Ana County 9% (1,348), San Juan County 8% (1,243), Sandoval County 6% (827), and Santa Fe County 5% (816). See Table 37 for the proportion of new charges filed by each county.

2. Domestic Violence Charges Disposed in Magistrate Courts, 2013

There were 12,830 domestic violence charges disposed in 10,321 cases of domestic violence in magistrate courts in 2013. Of the disposed domestic violence charges, most (53%, 6,856) were battery, followed by assault (1,175) and aggravated battery (1,159) with 9% respectively, criminal damage to property 8% (1,057), and false imprisonment (823) and violation of a protective order (737), with 6%, respectively. See Figure 29 for the proportion of each type of domestic violence crime disposed in 2013.

Bernalillo County comprised most (33%, or 4,254) of all the magistrate court domestic violence charges disposed, followed by Dona Ana County, 9% (1,217), San Juan County, 7% (857), and Sandoval County, 6% (739). See Table 38 for the proportion of charges disposed by each county.

Of the 12,830 domestic violence charges disposed, 73% (9,365) were dismissed, 1% (174) were acquitted and 12% (156) obtained a guilty plea or conviction. The remaining 14% were charges with “other” dispositions such as conditional discharges 1% (104), deferred charges 1% (173), transfers 4% (486), or bind over charges 8% (972) which demonstrated prosecution proceedings that did not result in a dismissal, conviction, or acquittal. See Figure 30.

There were 52 unique charges comprising 12 unique categories of domestic violence crimes among the 12,830 disposed domestic violence charges in magistrate courts in 2013. Dispositions (dismissals, acquittals, convictions) were examined by type of domestic violence charge. Assault against a household member (895) and stalking (93) were the charges with the greatest proportion of dismissals 80%, respectively, followed by deprivation of property 79% (52), battery against a household member 77% (5,180), harassment 75% (176), criminal damage to property 73% (723), and violation of a protective order 70% (475). Figure 31 illustrates the proportion of each domestic violence charge that was dismissed.

Similarly, when guilty pleas/convictions were examined by type of domestic violence charge, violation of a protective order was the charge with the greatest proportion of convictions, 18% (136), followed by criminal damage to property 16% (168), and battery (962) and harassment (35), with 16% respectively. Figure 32 illustrates the proportion of each domestic violence charge that obtained a guilty plea or conviction.

There were 174 domestic violence charges that were acquitted. When acquittals were examined by type of domestic violence charge, violation of a protective order obtained the greatest proportion of acquittals, 4% (28), followed by stalking, 3% (3). Two percent respectively, of battery (109) and harassment charges (5) were acquitted. One percent respectively, of criminal damage to property charges (8), assault (13), and aggravated battery (8) were acquitted; and aggravated assault, aggravated stalking, assault with intent to commit a violent felony, and false imprisonment had no acquittals.

Dispositions of domestic violence charges were examined by magistrate court. When dismissals were examined by magistrate court (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence charges), Anthony Magistrate Court had the greatest proportion of dismissals (97%), followed by Chama Magistrate Court and Albuquerque Metropolitan Court (94%, respectively), and Santa Fe Magistrate Court (84%). Conversely, Carrizozo

Magistrate Court had the fewest domestic violence charges dismissed (18%), followed by Fort Sumner Magistrate Court (26%), and Alamogordo magistrate court (28%). See Table 39 for the proportion of domestic violence charges dismissed for all magistrate courts.

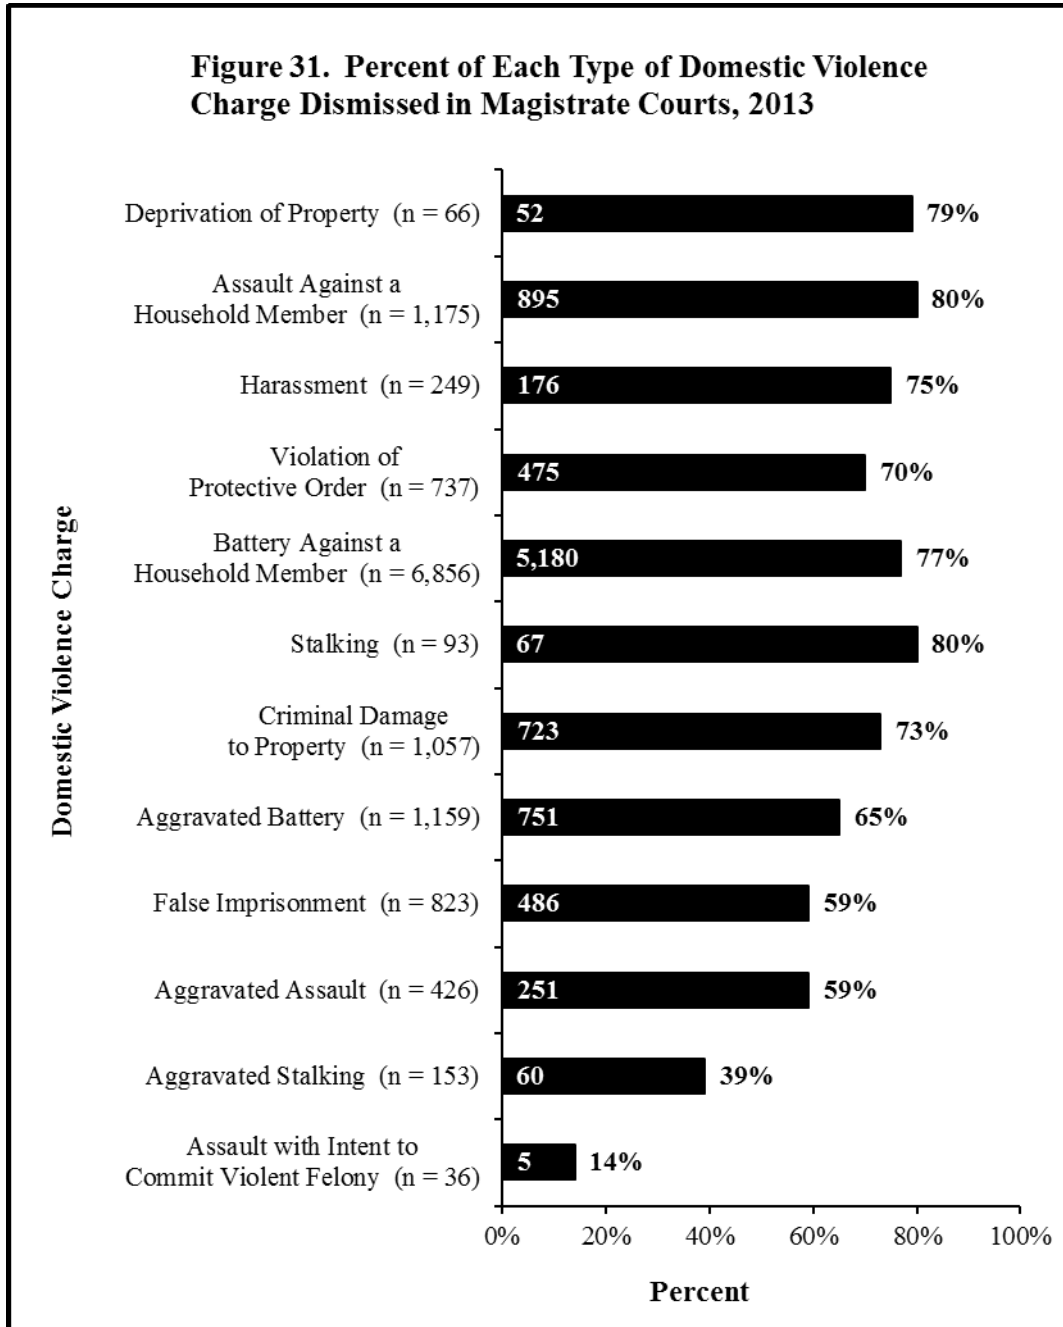

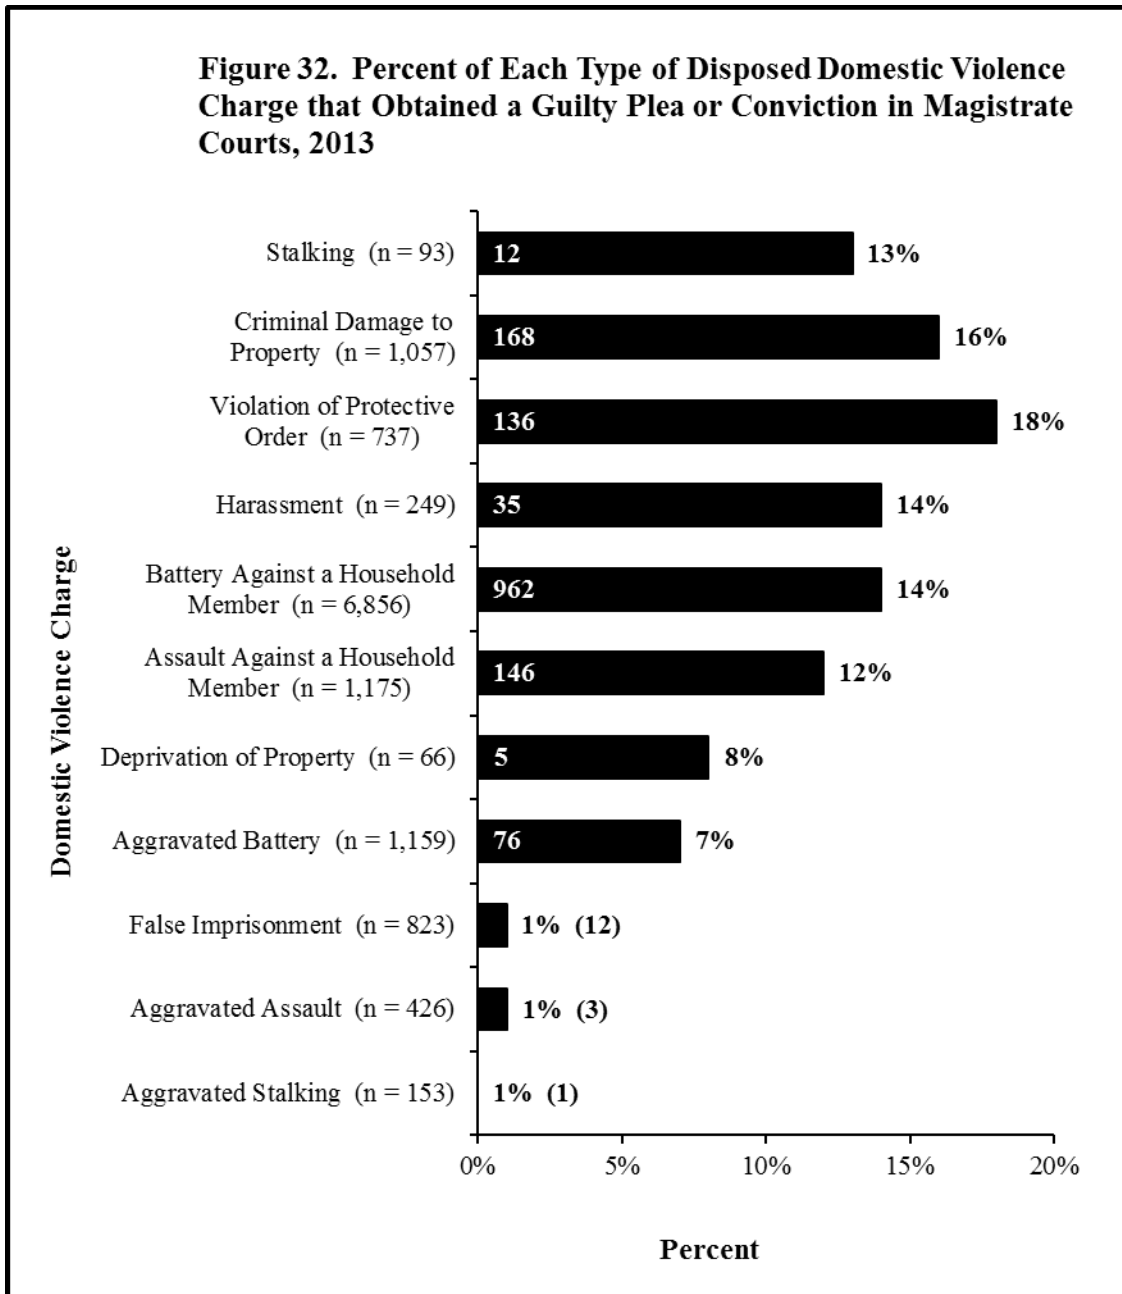

Figure 32. Percent of Each Type of Disposed Domestic Violence Charge that Obtained a Guilty Plea or Conviction in Magistrate Courts, 2013

When guilty pleas/convictions were examined by magistrate court (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence charges), Ruidoso Magistrate Court had the greatest proportion of convictions (49%), followed by Artesia and Fort Sumner magistrate courts (39%, respectively), and Jal Magistrate Court (38%). Conversely, Anthony Magistrate Court had the fewest convictions of domestic violence charges (0%), followed by Los Lunas, Espanola, and Belen magistrate courts (3%, respectively), Albuquerque Metro Court (4%), and Las Cruces and Chama magistrate courts (6%, respectively). See Table 40 for the proportion of domestic violence charges that obtained a guilty plea/conviction for all magistrate courts.

For the disposition outcomes on specific domestic violence charges for each magistrate court, see Tables M1 – M47.

3. Domestic Violence Cases Disposed in Magistrate Courts, 2013

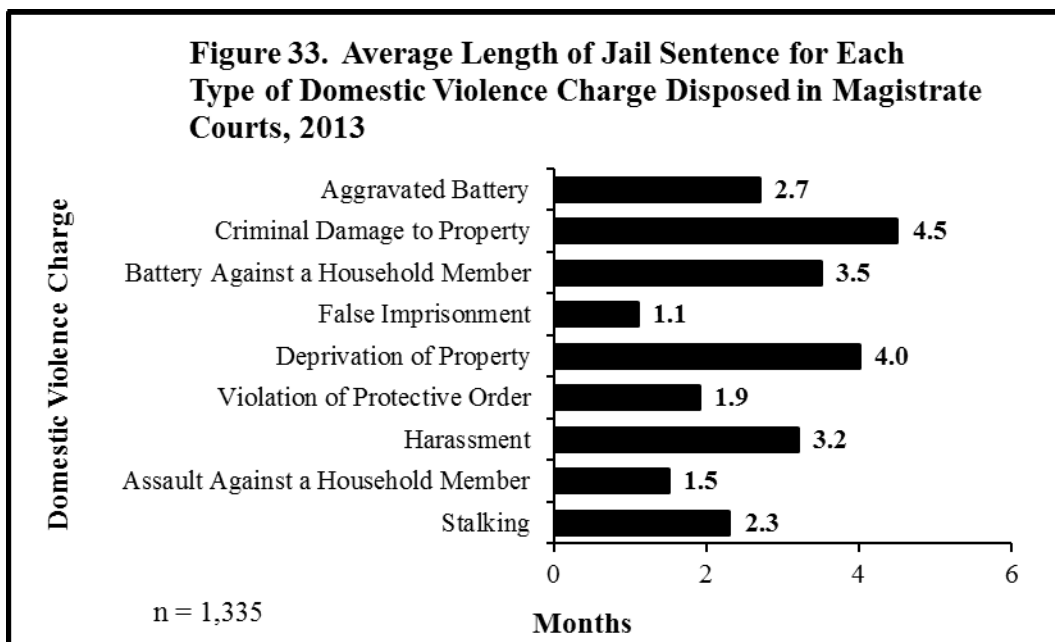

Of the 10,321 cases of domestic violence disposed in magistrate courts in 2013, 14% (1,448) obtained a guilty plea/conviction, 1% (139) obtained an acquittal, 75% (7,707) were dismissed, and 10% had prosecution proceedings that resulted in “other dispositions” (bind over cases 5% (557), transfers 3% (276), deferred cases 1% (127), and conditional discharges 1% (67).

Table 41 illustrates the number of cases dismissed, convicted, acquitted and that obtained other dispositions outcomes for each magistrate court.

An examination of dismissed cases by magistrate courts (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence cases) shows that Anthony Magistrate Court had the highest dismissal rate of their disposed domestic violence cases (96%), followed by Chama and Albuquerque Metro Courts (94%, respectively), Santa Fe Magistrate Court (81%) and Chama Magistrate Court (84%). Conversely, Carrizozo Magistrate Court had the fewest dismissals (23%), followed Alamogordo Magistrate Court (27%), Mora Magistrate Court (29%) and Ruidoso Magistrate Court (31%). See Table 42.

Similarly, an examination of cases that obtained a guilty plea/conviction by magistrate court (among courts with 10 or more domestic violence cases) shows that Ruidoso Magistrate Court had the highest conviction rate of their disposed domestic violence cases (53%), followed by Fort Sumner Magistrate Court (50%), and Alamogordo Magistrate Court (45%). Conversely, Anthony Magistrate Court had the fewest domestic violence cases with a conviction (0%), followed by Los Lunas and Belen magistrate courts (4%, respectively), and Espanola Magistrate and Albuquerque Metro Court (5%, respectively). See Table 43.

Of the 1,448 domestic violence cases that resulted in a guilty plea or conviction, 1,426 reported jail and/or probation sentencing: 6% (88) received a jail sentence, 6% (90) received probation with no jail, and 87% (1,247) received a jail and probation sentence. Criminal damage to property was the charge that received the longest average jail sentence (4.5 months), followed by deprivation of property (4.0 months), battery against a household member (3.5 months), harassment (3.2 months) and aggravated battery against a household member (2.7 months). See Figure 33 for the average length of sentence for each type of domestic violence charge disposed in magistrate courts in 2013.

SECTION TWO: IMPLICATIONS OF THE FINDINGS AND FUTURE DATA NEEDS

A. Identifying Children At Risk

Service providers reported that children were present at one out of every 3.1 domestic violence incidents in 2013, and 79% of them were under the age of twelve. The ASD revealed that children who witness abuse are four times more likely to experience child abuse, than children that do not witness abuse. It further found that most (62%) of abused children experienced multiple types of abuse, most typically at the hands of a family member (84%); and those abused as children have poorer health outcomes. Survivors abused as children compared to those not abused were six times more likely to be abused as an adult, four times more likely respectively, to be told they have a mental illness and attempt suicide, three times more likely respectively, to think about suicide and be told they have a substance abuse problem. The children served by statewide service providers (3,252) represent 48% of the number present at the scene of domestic violence incidents as reported by law enforcement (6,825). These numbers represent only children in domestic violence cases that are reported. With so much at stake, it is imperative that greater effort be made (protocols for coordinated community response and systems in place) to better identify children that witness child abuse and ensure participation in appropriate counseling services for assessment and treatment.

B. Poverty and Violence

Most of the battered women who go to a domestic violence service provider for shelter and/or other services are poor. Since there is no way to capture the number of survivors with financial means who access private services, and/or who travel out of state for services, it is not possible to determine the true proportion of survivors among all battered women who are poor. However, the ASD found that most unmarried survivors with children and those without children who went for domestic violence services in New Mexico meet federal poverty level requirements for 150% and 133% of income, as well as the more restrictive federal poverty income level.

Almost two-thirds (60%, 656) of survivors reported that they left a violent relationship at some time. Of these, one-third (32%, 212) reported that they returned. Reasons for returning to their abuser in the order of most mentions include, returned: to try to work it out, for the children, and because I was scared. A central core of the consideration for returning “for the children” is finances. Among the descriptions for scared is “no support/lack of resources”. Indeed, the ASD revealed that survivors who left a violent relationship and did not return had a median annual income $2,080 greater ($12,000) than those who left and returned ($9,920). It further found that only 42% of survivors who are eligible/receive Medicaid/TANF assistance live in their own apartment or home. Most live in shelter (23%), with a friend (29%), transitional housing (1%), or on the street (3%).

Of survivors who were involved in a prior domestic violence experience, 43% reported that they live with an offender with whom they had a prior domestic violence incident. When examined by income, survivors who live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience had a median annual income of $2,400 less ($9,600) than survivors that do not live with an offender with whom they have had a prior domestic violence experience ($12,000).

All of this points to the reality of the role that poverty plays in an individual’s vulnerability to living in violence. Greater emphasis must be pointed toward providing basic housing, food, clothing, transportation, and access to employment and health care for victims and their families to allow them to leave and stay away from a violent environment.

C. Mental Illness and Health and Safety Risk

Survivors with a parent with mental illness were twelve times more likely than other survivors to be told they have mental illness. Survivors with mental illness were five times more likely than survivors without to be told they have a substance abuse problem and two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident and to be injured during a violent incident. These data have implications for investigating the plausibility of developing a system for at-scene referral to mental health agencies to evaluate survivors for mental illness, both for their own sake, and the sake of their children's future health and safety.

D. Injury Risk Factors

Law enforcement agencies reported that 43% of the domestic violence incidents in 2013 involved injury to the victim. They do not document or report injury to children. Service providers reported that 28% of survivors and 33% of children were injured in domestic violence cases that came to their attention.

From the ASD, among the types of abuse reported by the 89% of survivors who reported abuse by an intimate partner, are physical attack (60%), physical restraint (29%), threatened to be harmed or killed (34%), strangulation (12%), sexual assault (11%) and involvement of a lethal weapon (12%). Twenty percent of children present during these abusive incidents suffered the same types of abuse.

The ASD revealed that survivor risk of injury increased among survivors: a) with a substance abuse problem; b) with a mental illness; c) involved in a prior domestic violence incident; d) ever abused while pregnant; e) who are female; or f) who are Native American. This information has implications for law enforcement for assessing risk of harm to the survivor and children at the scene, and for service providers when developing safety plans with survivors.

E. Substance Abuse and Risk

As with mental illness, survivors who were told they have a substance abuse problem compared to those without, were two times more likely respectively, to have used alcohol/drugs during a domestic violence incident, to be involved in an incident where the abuser used alcohol/drugs, and to be injured during a domestic violence incident. Additionally, survivors with an substance abuse problem were two times more likely than those without a substance abuse problem to think about suicide, and four times more likely to attempt suicide. This information has implications for providing access to substance abuse treatment for survivors.

F. Stalking Underreporting, Technology, Training, and Victim Referral

New Mexico first enacted their stalking statute in 1997. In 2009, the legislature amended the definition of "pattern of conduct" in the statute to reflect the variety of behaviors stalkers were employing in cases across the state, including the use of technology. N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3(2010): (2) "pattern of conduct " means two or more acts, on more than one occasion, in which the alleged stalker by any action, method, device or means, directly, indirectly or through third parties, follows, monitors, surveils, threatens or communicates to or about a person. The new statute also included a court ordered program intervention as part of the punishment for a convicted stalker, "D. In addition to any punishment provided pursuant to the provisions of this section, the court shall order a person convicted of stalking to participate in and complete a program of professional counseling at the person's own expense or a domestic violence offender treatment or intervention program." The statute change in aggravated stalking was believed to be the most promising in law enforcement's efforts to establish a stalking charge as it allowed a charge of aggravated stalking if a perpetrator violated an existing order of protection or conditions of release: N.M. Stat. Ann. § 30-3A-3.1 2010): Aggravated stalking. A. Aggravated stalking consists of stalking perpetrated by a person: (1) who knowingly violates a permanent or temporary order of protection issued by a court, except that mutual violations of such orders may constitute a defense to aggravated stalking; (2) in violation of a court order setting conditions of release and bond.

Even with new stalking policies, there are still too few cases of stalking recognized and charged as such by law enforcement agencies throughout the state. In the 12 months prior to the Survey of Violence Victimization (SVV), 2.0% of adult women and 0.4% of adult men were victims of stalking in New Mexico. In 2012, the ASD found that 26% of survivors reported that they were stalked by their abuser. Nationally in 2010, the NISVS found that 4% of adult women and 1.3% of adult men were victims of stalking. Yet in 2013, statewide law enforcement agencies identified 1,223 victims of harassment and 87 stalking victims.

There are numerous administrative and procedural issues that affect accurate reporting of domestic violence and stalking incidents ranging from whether and how police offense incident reports are written to how these reports are entered into law enforcement databases or otherwise counted.

The issues surrounding identification of stalking incidents and victims are particularly worrisome. This is explained in part by the fact that most stalking cases are labeled other crimes (harassment, vandalism, destruction of property, arson, trespassing, car theft, etc.) and are therefore not captured. The failure to differentiate between stalking victims and victims of isolated crimes means that many stalking victims are not getting referred for appropriate services. This is a significant problem as the SVV found that 87% of stalking victims also reported being a victim of domestic violence, other physical attack, and/or sexual assault. These victims and their children are at greater health and safety risk and need to be referred for appropriate services; and these types of referrals are not likely to happen as a result of a trespass, vandalism, or other similarly labeled isolated crime incident. It is imperative to provide necessary training to all law enforcement officers, administrative personnel, and executive personnel whose policies guide law enforcement procedure regarding the description, documentation, and data entry of stalking crimes. In 2010, APD and a few other law enforcement agencies implemented new technology for officers at the scene to access information regarding prior offenses and protection order information. It is clear that any improvement that this technology has made failed to translate to the improved identification and referral of stalking victims, and the documentation of stalking incidents.

G. Evidence Supporting the Focus on Early Intervention to Prevent Domestic Violence

In 2013, two-thirds (66%) of the law enforcement incidents documenting the victim/offender relationship, were perpetrated by a current or former intimate partner, 49% of these by current or former boyfriends/girlfriends who are or were dating or living together. Similarly, 87% of adult victims who sought services from a domestic violence service provider were assaulted by a current or former intimate partner, 34% of these were dating or living together. The SSV found that two-thirds (66.5%) of domestic violence incidents were perpetrated by current or former intimate partners, and one-third of these were dating or living together. Further, stalking behaviors begin in adolescence and the reported incidence of adolescent stalking is almost twice that of adolescent intimate partner violence. The high proportion of interpersonal violence cases perpetrated by adolescent offenders, demonstrates that true prevention requires early education initiatives on building healthy relationships during adolescence.

H. Sexual Assault Prevention and Treatment for Domestic Violence Child and Adult Victims

In 2012, the ASD found many children experienced sexual abuse (8%) at the hands of their adult-victim's offender. Similarly, 11% of adult domestic violence victims seeking counseling services were sexually assaulted by their offender.

The rates of sexual abuse of adults and children are grossly underreported. Findings from the SVV reveal that almost half of the adults in New Mexico who were ever a victim of domestic violence, intimate partner violence or stalking were also sexually assaulted. Of those that were sexually assaulted, 45% were victimized by the age of 12. Further, the NISVS reported that 8.7% of women that were ever victims of intimate partner physical violence, were also raped by their intimate partner. This suggests that effective prevention and treatment programs for domestic violence victims must include components of sexual assault prevention and treatment or must provide referrals to appropriate sexual assault services.

I. Interpersonal Violence Prevention and Advocacy for Males

In New Mexico in 2013, 29% of domestic violence victims identified by law enforcement were males. Findings from the SVV demonstrated that 1 in 7 males in New Mexico has been the victim of domestic violence in his lifetime, 1 in 10 a victim of intimate partner violence, and 1 in 14 a victim of stalking. More outreach must be done to identify male victims of interpersonal violence to offer prevention and treatment programs specific to males.

J. Providing Offender Treatment Programs

In New Mexico, 74% of suspects identified by law enforcement and 82% of offenders identified by domestic violence service providers in 2013, were male. Findings from the SVV revealed that 83% of stalking offenders and 80% of domestic violence and intimate partner violence offenders respectively, are male. Even when males are the victims in interpersonal violence crimes, half to two-thirds (depending on the crime) are being victimized by a male. Perhaps greater outcomes in domestic violence prevention may be realized through greater availability of offender prevention and therapeutic programs that include strategies for addressing aggression in male socialization.

K. Evidence Supporting the Need to Identify Domestic Violence Victims in the Healthcare Setting

In 2013, law enforcement reported that 43% of adult victims were physically injured during a domestic violence incident. Similarly, statewide service providers reported that 28% of adults and 33% of children were physically injured by the adult victim's offender during a domestic violence incident. The SVV found that 44% of domestic violence victims were injured and over one-third of them sought medical treatment. This suggests that New Mexico healthcare facilities may play an important role in both, the identification of domestic violence victims and their referral to appropriate services.

Patients that are seen in the healthcare/emergency room setting with a domestic violence-related injury are typically not reported to law enforcement and represent a substantial gap in reporting. While many healthcare facilities use screening tools to identify patients who are victims of domestic violence, no standardized monitoring system to reliably document the number of these individuals currently exists. Methods to determine healthcare utilization by victims of violence through e-codes or billing databases have been unsuccessful and are unreliable at best, due to definitional problems of the codes, practitioner discretion and inconsistencies in naming injuries, and the insurance-related intentions of billing databases. The need to rectify these problems is underscored by findings from the SVV which revealed substantial co-morbidity with domestic violence victims with regard to serious disabling injury and chronic mental health problems.

The process for collecting standardized domestic violence data from statewide medical facilities is not yet established. Since many times the first, and perhaps only contact a victim may have with the "helping system" is through a hospital emergency department or physicians' office, this creates a significant void in the Central Repository data and represents a major obstacle in accurately defining the scope and nature of domestic violence in our state. Moreover, until better protocols are established for identifying patient visits associated with interpersonal violence, a significant portion of the total cost of interpersonal violence to individuals, their communities, and the state cannot be estimated.

L. Evidence Supporting the Need for Culturally Competent Services for Native Americans

While more Native American survivors completed college (50%) than survivors of other races, it is also true that more Native American survivors were low income - eligible to receive Medicaid (48%) and TANF (20%) assistance or both (16%); more lived in shelter before as an adult (22%); more incurred injury (56%) than other races in domestic violence incidents; and, had a mean number of children (2.9) higher than all other races (2.7). All of this points to the need for specifically targeted interventions for efficacious advocacy for Native American survivors and their children.

M. Evidence Supporting the Need for Better Court Data on Domestic Violence

Within the last two years, the Central Repository has worked with the AOC directly and through the Point of Contact Attorney (a VAWA funded position to serve as liaison between the courts and domestic violence providers) to obtain better quality data on interpersonal violence crimes. This effort has led to an expansion of the domestic violence crimes captured, which now include false imprisonment, criminal damage to property, deprivation of property, harassment, and violation of a restrictive order, in addition to the more typical battery/aggravated battery, assault/aggravated assault and stalking/aggravated stalking charges.

Still, quality protection order information is needed to determine the efficacy of protection orders, emergency protection orders, their rate of enforcement, and the consequences for violating protection orders for offenders and victims.

It is important to obtain better court data because evidence of currently available data demonstrates that there has been a steady decrease in the rate of domestic violence convictions in statewide district and magistrate courts. In 2013, the conviction rates of disposed domestic violence cases in district (38%) and magistrate courts (14%) are among the lowest rates of conviction over the last eight years.

Without better data from the courts vital information such as, why the dismissal rate in domestic violence cases has increased and why the rate of conviction for domestic violence cases has decreased, remains unknown. Answers to these questions will serve to improve the efficacy of legal advocacy for domestic violence victims.

N. Interpersonal Violence and Needed Changes in Law Enforcement, Prosecution and The Courts To Reduce The Risk of Harm for Male and Female Victims

Findings from the SVV demonstrate that female victims are more likely than male victims to report their offense, two times more likely to file criminal charges against their offenders and are more likely to get a restraining order against their offenders, even though interpersonal crimes with male victims involve more alcohol/drugs, weapon use, and more serious disabling injury. Additionally, while half of all restraining orders are violated, male victims of intimate partner violence crimes are more likely to have a restraining order violated, less likely to have their offenders arrested, and significantly more likely that the charges against their offenders will be dropped or the offenders will obtain an acquittal. Further, if their offenders are convicted, offenders of male victims are more likely to serve less time in jail or prison than offenders of female victims.

While all of the system failures that contribute to the high risk of harm for female victims of interpersonal violence are widely known, it is clear from these findings that interpersonal violence is dangerous for males, as well. While both genders do not utilize system protections as they should, male victims are even less likely than female victims to do so; and even when system protections are sought for intimate partner violence, violations of restraining orders are more frequent, and convictions of their offenders less frequent, for male victims. All of this speaks to: 1) the need for early education to correct misconceptions in gender socialization; 2) greater community education to increase awareness of the incidence and risk of interpersonal violence among males; and 3) comprehensive training of law enforcement, prosecutors and judges regarding the high risk of harm for men and women victims of interpersonal violence, and the development of protocols in their respective disciplines aimed at reducing the likelihood of harm, disability and death of all interpersonal violence victims.

Closing Comments

The aforementioned improvements will ultimately be required to answer the type of domestic violence questions that are most critical in guiding public policy decisions, program development and the most effective allocation of resources. To this end, the Central Repository Director will continue to pursue collaborations with statewide agencies (both current participants and non-participants) and the NM Department of Health and the Department of Public Safety to develop a process for enhancing the present data collection system.

APPENDICES

Appendix A: Life Experiences of Adult Survivors of Domestic Violence

The Adult Survivor Database (ASD) was developed to capture research information on individual domestic violence survivors who seek assistance from statewide domestic violence service providers. In 2012, eleven statewide service provider agencies began using the ASD. For calendar year 2012, there were 1,101 records available for analysis.

I. FINDINGS

A. Demographics

1. Survivor Gender, Race, Age, Sexual Orientation, Marital Status, Language

Most domestic violence survivors were female (93%), Hispanic (56%) (see Figure 1), with a median age of 33 (see Figure 2). Sexual orientation was reported on only one-third (38%) of survivors, of which 95% were self-identified as heterosexual, 3% bisexual, and 2% lesbian. Marital status was not directly captured. However, when the survivor's relationship with the current abuser was documented, 27% were married and 6% were divorced.

One-quarter (24%) of domestic violence survivors speak a first language other than English. See Table A. A greater proportion of Spanish speaking survivors than survivors speaking other languages reported having difficulty with English: two-thirds (66%) of Spanish speaking survivors reported having difficulty with English, compared to 37.5% of Native speaking survivors, 7% of survivors of "other" languages, and 1% of English speaking survivors.

Table A. Survivor First/Preferred Language

First/Preferred Language	Number of Survivors	Percent Survivors
English	571	76%
Native American	8	1%
Other	15	2%
Portugese	1	0.1%
Sign Language	3	0.4%
Spanish	149	20%

2. Survivor Education Level

Education level was reported for 478 survivors. Of these, 84% achieved a high school equivalent or higher education level. One-third (32% or 154) went to college or graduate school. Of 154 who went to college or graduate school, 79 (51%) completed their degree.

Education level was documented on too few Asian survivors (0), Black survivors (9), Pacific Islander survivors (1), survivors of mixed race (3) and survivors of "other" races (9) to validly examine. Among races/ethnicities that can be compared, 93% of Native Americans, 89% of Whites (non-Hispanic), and 79% of Hispanics completed high school or a higher level of education. Half (50%) of Native American survivors completed college or graduate school, compared to 38% of White (non-Hispanic) survivors and 26% of Hispanic survivors. See Figure 3.

3. Survivor Income

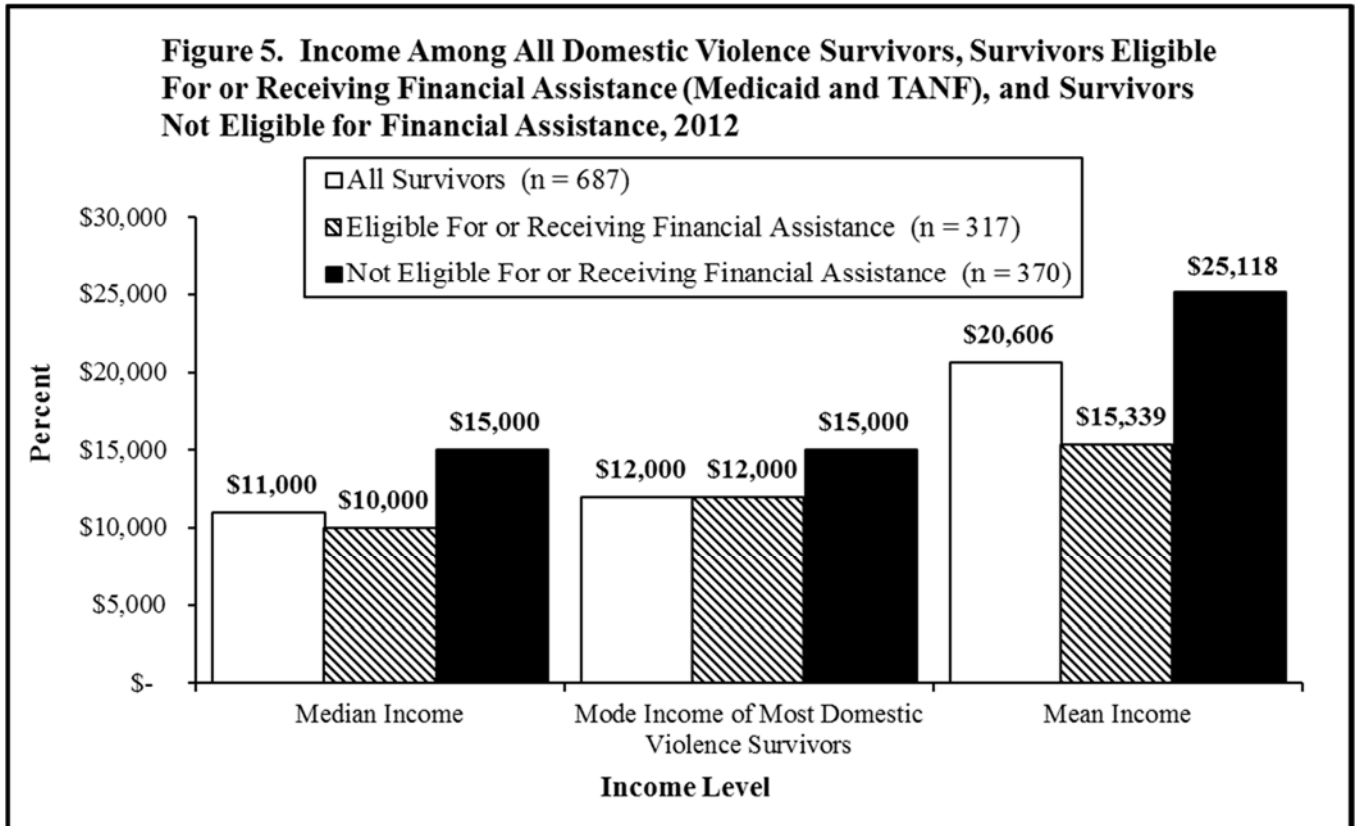

Slightly over one-third (39%) of survivors were enrolled in Medicaid (430), 13% (148) received TANF Assistance, and 11% (119) were involved in both programs. An examination of income by survivor race/ethnicity among those with a minimum of 20 survivors, reveals that "other" race was the one with the greatest proportion of survivors enrolled in Medicaid (60%), followed by Native Americans (48%), Blacks (46%), Hispanics (42%), and Whites (non-Hispanic) (31%). Native American survivors comprised the race with the greatest proportion receiving TANF assistance (20%) and involved in both medicaid and TANF programs (16%). See Figure 4.

Of 687 survivors whose income was reported, the median income was $11,000. Most (mode) survivors reported a yearly income of $12,000. The average income was $20,606.

There were 642 survivors not eligible or receiving financial assistance (TANF and Medicaid). Of these, income was reported for 370 survivors. The median income was $15,500. Most (mode) survivors not eligible or receiving financial assistance reported an income of $15,000. Their average income was $25,118.

There were 459 survivors who were eligible or receiving financial assistance. Of these, income was reported for 317 survivors. The median income was $10,000. Most (mode) survivors eligible or receiving financial assistance reported an income of $12,000. Their average income was $15,339. See Figure 5.

Those survivors not eligible/not receiving financial assistance had a median income 50% higher, and an average income 64% higher, than those eligible/receiving assistance. However, the mean income of all survivors eligible/receiving or not, is $11,000 - 4% below the federal poverty guideline's level of poverty for an individual ($11,490); and well below the 133% ($15,282) to 150% ($17,235) of their income to qualify for federal assistance programs. In fact, 71% (490) of the 687 survivors with income reported had an actual income that would qualify them for federal assistance programs at the higher threshold of 150% of income, and 66% (456) would qualify for federal assistance programs at 133% of income.

An examination of income by race/ethnicity reveals that White (non-Hispanic) survivors reported the highest income (mean = $20,653; median = $12,000), followed by Hispanic survivors (mean = $17,667; median $12,000), survivors of "other" races (mean = $11,347; median = $10,326), Native American survivors (mean = $10,947; median = $8,868) and Black survivors (mean = $11,542; median = $8,382). See Figure 6.

Over half (55%) of survivors did not live in their own rented apartment or own a home: 25% lived in shelter, 23% lived with a friend or relative, 3% were homeless/ living on the street, 2% lived with the offender, and 1% lived in transitional housing. See Figure 7.

When living status was examined by survivor income, significantly fewer survivors who need financial assistance live in an apartment or their own home: over half (57%) of survivors not eligible/not receiving financial assistance (TANF or Medicaid) live in a rented apartment or own home, compared to 42% of survivors who are eligible/receive assistance. Similarly, a significantly greater proportion (29%) of those eligible/receiving assistance, than those not eligible/not receiving assistance (15%), live with a friend or relative. See Figure 8.

B. Survivor Family of Origin and Childhood Experiences

1. Witnessing Family Violence As a Child and Child Abuse

One-third of domestic violence survivors reported that they witnessed family violence as a child. Children who witnessed family violence were four times more likely (59%) to experience child abuse than children who did not witness family violence (14%).

Over one-quarter (29%) of survivors reported actually being abused as a child. More female survivors reported witnessing (35%) and experiencing (30%) family violence, than male survivors (24% and 17%, respectively). However, this rate difference between genders should be viewed with caution as the number of male domestic violence survivors is relatively few (75).

When witnessing abuse and experiencing child abuse were examined by race/ethnicity, more Black survivors (58%) reported witnessing abuse, and more survivors of “other” races (50%) reported experiencing actual abuse. Fewer Hispanic survivors than survivors of all other races, reported witnessing (30%) or experiencing (23%) child abuse. See Figure 9.

Of 322 victims abused as a child, 304 specified the type of abuse experienced. Of these, 68% (208) experienced physical abuse, 68% (206) emotional abuse, and 50% (153) sexual abuse as a child. One-quarter (26% or 80) of victims experienced all three types of abuse. One-third (31% or 95) experienced physical and sexual abuse; one-half (52% or 158) experienced physical and emotional abuse; and one-third (30% or 90) experienced sexual and emotional abuse.

2. Parental substance abuse and mental illness

Nine percent (103) of domestic violence survivors reported growing up with a parent with a substance abuse problem. Five percent (55) of domestic violence survivors reported growing up with a parent with a mental illness.

Domestic violence survivors with a parent with mental illness, than survivors with a parent without mental illness were 8 times more likely to also have a parent with a substance abuse problem: over half (58%) of survivors with a parent with mental illness compared to 7% of survivors with a parent without mental illness, reported having a parent with a substance abuse problem.

3. Child/Abuser relationship

Of 322 victims abused as children, 232 reported the relationship to their abuser. Of these, 84% (195) were abused by a family member, 25% (58) by a non-family member, and 3% (8) by a stranger. One survivor (.04%) was abused by a family member, non-family member and a stranger; 24 (10%) were abused by both a family member and non-family member. Three survivors (1%) were abused by a family member and a stranger; and 3 (1%) were abused by a non-family member and a stranger.

Among survivors who experienced child abuse, there was a slight difference in the victim/abuser relationship and the likelihood to have suicide thoughts and attempt suicide. One-third (30%) of survivors abused as children by a family member thought about suicide and 21% attempted suicide. Similarly 28% of survivors abused as children by a non-family member thought about suicide and 17% attempted suicide.

4. In Shelter as Child

One percent (16) of domestic violence survivors reported being in a domestic violence shelter as a child. As this number is so few, it cannot validly be examined by other factors.

C. Survivor Risk Factors

1. Survivor Substance Abuse and Mental Illness

Overall, six percent (69) of domestic violence survivors were told they have a substance abuse problem. Six percent (63) of female survivors and eight percent (6) of male survivors reported being told they have a substance abuse problem.

Thirteen percent of survivors were told they have a mental illness. In this analysis with few (75) male survivors, slightly more males (15%) than females (13%) were told they had a mental illness.

When survivor substance abuse and mental illness were examined by race/ethnicity, more survivors of “other” races, reported mental illness (35%) and having a substance abuse problem (25%) than survivors of all other races/ethnicities. See Figure 10. As there are relatively few survivors of “other” races (20) and Black survivors (24), these findings should be viewed with caution.

Survivors abused as a child (12%) were three times more likely than survivors who did not experience child abuse (4%), to be told they have a substance abuse problem.

Survivors abused as a child (26%) were four times (3.7) more likely than survivors who did not experience child abuse (7%), to be told they have a mental illness.

Survivors told they have a mental illness were five times more likely than survivors without mental illness to have a substance abuse problem: Of 142 survivors told they have a mental illness, 28 (20%) also were told they have a substance abuse problem. Of 959 survivors not told they have a mental illness, 41 (4%) have been told they have a substance abuse problem.

Five percent of survivors reported having a parent with a mental illness. However, survivors who were told they have a mental illness were 12.5 times more likely (25%) to have a parent with mental illness, than survivors without mental illness (2%).

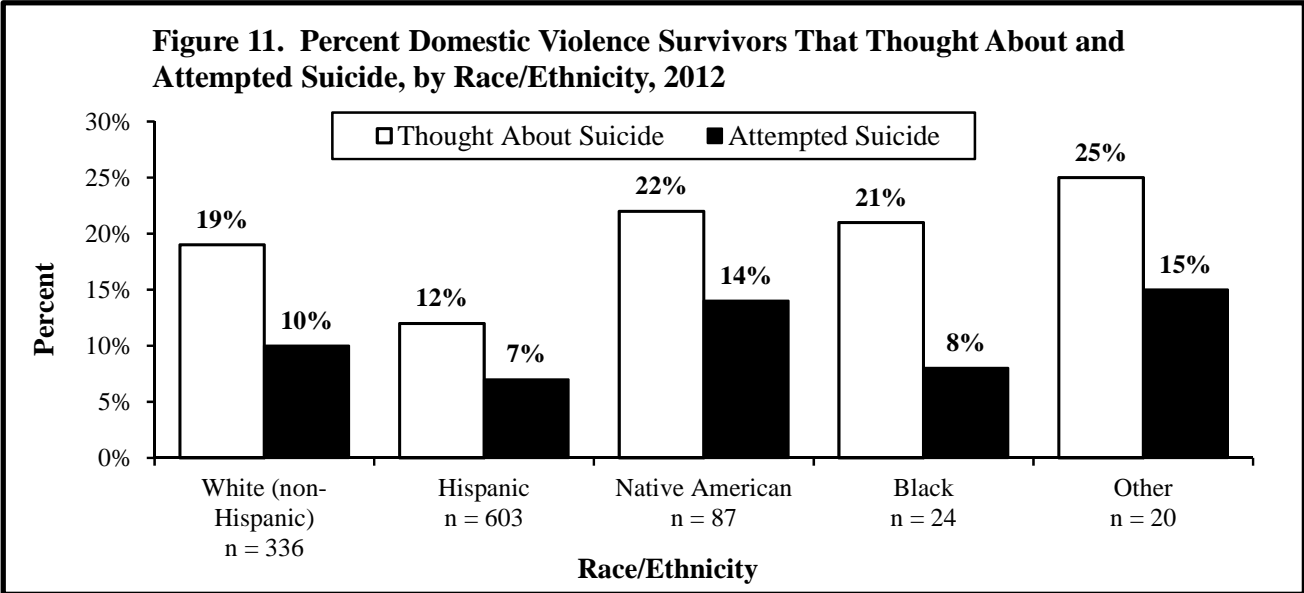

2. Suicide ideology and attempts

Overall, 15% (168) of domestic violence survivors thought about suicide, and 9% (98) reported at least one suicide attempt. When examined by gender, more female survivors, 16% (162), than male survivors 7% (5) reported thinking about suicide; and more female survivors, 9% (96), than male survivors 3% (2) reported at least one suicide attempt.

When suicide ideology and attempts were examined by race/ethnicity, slightly more survivors (25%) of “other” races thought about and attempted (15%) suicide than all other races/ethnicities. See Figure 11.

Those abused as a child were three times more likely than those not abused to report thinking about suicide: of 322 victims abused as children, 30% (96) reported that they thought about suicide. Of 779 not abused as children, 9% (72) thought about suicide.

Those abused as children were four times more likely (19%) than those not abused (5%) to attempt suicide.

Survivors who experienced emotional abuse, alone or in combination with physical and/or sexual abuse were more likely to attempt suicide than those who did not experience emotional abuse. While more survivors who suffered sexual abuse thought about suicide (among survivors who reported only one type of abuse), slightly more survivors who reported experiencing emotional abuse (24%) attempted suicide, than those who reported sexual abuse (21%), or physical abuse (11%). See Figure 12.

Similarly, more survivors who suffered a combination of abuses which included emotional abuse, thought about and attempted suicide than survivors of physical and sexual abuse. See Figure 13.

Domestic violence survivors with a parent with mental illness were six times (42%) more likely to have attempted suicide, than survivors with a parent without mental illness (7%).

D. Adult Domestic Violence Experiences

1. Prior Adult Domestic Violence Experience

Over half (57%, 628) of survivors reported having a prior domestic violence experience as an adult. Of these, three-quarters (72% or 455) were involved in a prior domestic violence experience with the same offender, 21% with a different offender, and 11% (68) with both the same offender and a different offender.

2. Prior In-Shelter Experience

Sixteen percent of survivors reported being in shelter before as an adult. Of these 179 victims in shelter before as an adult, 163 reported the number of times. Over one-third (39%) were in shelter two or more times.

Among race/ethnicities with a minimum of 20 survivors, “other” races comprised the race/ethnicity with the greatest proportion of survivors (40%) who reported being in shelter before as an adult, followed by Black survivors (25%), Native American survivors (22%), White (non-Hispanic) survivors (16%), and Hispanic survivors (14%). See Figure 14.

It requires further study with a greater number of survivors, but being in domestic violence shelter as a child may be a good predictor of being in domestic violence shelter as an adult. Those in this analysis who were in a domestic violence shelter as a child were four (3.9) times more likely than those not sheltered as a child, to be in a domestic violence shelter as an adult: of 16 victims in shelter as a child, 62.5% (10) were in shelter also as an adult; of 1085 victims not in shelter as a child, 16% (169) were in shelter as an adult. As stated, these findings on the relationship between being in shelter as a child and being in shelter as an adult should be viewed with caution as they are based on only 16 survivors in this analysis.

3. Survivor/Abuser Relationship

Current or former intimate partners were the abuser in 84% of the survivor domestic violence cases. Current or former boyfriends comprised the relationship with the greatest proportion of abusers (45%), followed by current and former spouses (33%). Ex-girlfriends and girlfriends comprised 6% of abusers, and family members comprised 9%.

Females (86%) than males (70%) were more likely to be abused by an intimate partner. Males (20%) than females (9%) were significantly more likely to be abused by a family member.

While an equal proportion of survivors lived with their abuser as did not live with their abuser (50%), significantly more female survivors (52%) than male survivors (37%) lived with their abuser.

When examined by income, those survivors who live with their abuser reported an annual median income of $2400 less ($9,600) than those who do not live with their abuser ($12,000).

4. Domestic Violence Incidents Involving Survivor Substance Abuse

Twelve percent (137) of domestic violence survivors reported using alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident.

Survivors reported that abusers used alcohol/drugs in four times (53%) as many domestic violence incidents as incidents where survivors used alcohol/drugs (12%). Survivors who used alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident were two (1.8) times more likely (84%) than survivors who did not use alcohol/drugs (48%) to be involved in an incident where their abuser used alcohol/drugs.

Survivors reported that the abuser used alcohol/drugs significantly more in domestic violence incidents with female victims (54%), than male victims (45%).

Domestic violence survivors told they have a substance abuse problem, were five times (4.8) more likely to have used alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident (48%) than survivors without a substance abuse problem (10%).

Domestic violence survivors told they have a mental illness, were twice as likely to have used alcohol/drugs during the domestic violence incident (22%), than survivors without a mental illness (11%).

5. Type of Abuse/Violence Experienced From the Abuser

Survivors abused as children are six times more likely to experience abuse in an adult domestic violence incident, than survivors who were not abused as children: of 978 survivors who reported abuse in a recent or past domestic violence incident, 32% (316) reported experiencing child abuse; of 123 survivors who reported no abuse in a past or recent incident, 5% (6) reported experiencing child abuse.

In all, there were 978 (89%) survivors who reported recent or past abuse as an adult by an intimate partner.

There were 935 survivors (85%) who reported abuse from their offender in the most recent domestic violence incident. Of these, most (87%) reported verbal abuse, followed by physical attack (60%), being threatened to be harmed or killed (34%) and physical restraint (29%). One-quarter (27%) were either held hostage (14%) or prevented from calling for help (13%). A lethal weapon was used in 12% of cases, and strangulation was involved in 11% of cases. Similarly, 11% of survivors reported being sexually abused/coerced as well.

There were 820 survivors who reported being abused by an intimate partner in the past. Similar to the proportion of victims who reported abuse in the most recent incident, most victims who experienced past abuse from an intimate partner were verbally assaulted/degraded (83%), physically attacked (62%), or threatened (33%). Seventeen percent of those abused by an intimate partner in the past were sexually coerced, 15% respectively, were held hostage and threatened with a lethal weapon, and 14% respectively, were strangled and prevented from calling for help.

Of the 820 survivors who reported abuse by an intimate partner in the past, 807 (98%) reported abuse in the most recent domestic violence incident. Overall, there were 978 victims who reported abuse in a past or recent incident. Of these, 136 (14%) reported they or a partner were pregnant during the abuse.

6. Injury

One-quarter (27%) of survivors reported being injured in a recent or past domestic violence incident. Females were almost three (2.6) times more likely (29%) than males (11%) to report being injured during a domestic violence incident.

Among races/ethnicities represented by at least 20 domestic violence survivors, Native Americans (56%) reported the most survivors who incurred injury from a domestic violence incident, followed by Black survivors (42%), survivors of "other" races (40%), White (non-Hispanic) survivors (26%), and Hispanic survivors (23%).

Survivors who ever experienced abuse from an intimate partner while they or their partner were pregnant, were two times (2.2) more likely to report having been injured in a domestic violence incident (52%), than survivors who reported they or their partner did not experience abuse while pregnant (24%).

Involvement in a domestic violence incident as an adult increases one's likelihood of injury in a subsequent domestic violence incident: three-quarters (77%) of those survivors who reported being injured in a domestic violence incident, reported being involved in a prior adult domestic violence experience.

Survivors who have been told they have a substance abuse problem, were almost two times (1.8) more likely to report being injured in a domestic violence incident (46%) than those who do not have a substance abuse problem (26%).

Survivors who have been told they have a mental illness, were almost two times (1.7) more likely to report being injured in a domestic violence incident (42%) than those who do not have a mental illness (25%).

7. Medical Treatment

Of the 302 survivors who were injured, 44% (132) required medical treatment.

Over all, the rate of seeking medical treatment among injured survivors who required it, was quite high. Of the 132 injured survivors who required medical treatment, 83% (110) sought treatment.

Slightly more (87%) survivors with a substance abuse problem who needed treatment, sought treatment. Similarly, slightly more (84%) survivors with a mental illness who required treatment, sought treatment.

As mentioned earlier, female survivors were three times (29%) more likely to report being injured during a domestic violence incident than male survivors (11%). Of 294 female victims who were injured in a domestic violence incident, 129 (44%) required medical treatment. Of the 129 female survivors who required medical treatment, 85% (109) sought medical treatment.

A valid analysis on the proportion of males who required treatment and sought it was not possible in this dataset: of 75 male survivors, eight reported being injured during a domestic violence incident and only one required treatment, but did not get it.

Among races/ethnicities represented by at least 20 domestic violence survivors, Black survivors and "other" races (50% respectively) reported the most survivors who required medical treatment, followed by Native American and White (non-Hispanic) survivors (45% respectively), and Hispanic survivors (41%).

Among races/ethnicities represented by at least 20 domestic violence survivors, all (100%, respectively) Black survivors and "other" race survivors who required medical treatment, sought medical treatment. However, the number of survivors from these racial groups is very few so these findings should be viewed with caution. Ninety percent of White (non-Hispanic) survivors who required medical treatment sought it, followed by 82% of Native American survivors, and 81% of Hispanic survivors.

8. Children present

Three-quarters (77% or 836) of survivors reported having children. When examined by gender, three-quarters (77%) of female survivors and 69% of male survivors have children.

Most survivors (29%) have two children. The mean number of children per survivor is 2.7. Male survivors had a slightly higher mean number of children (2.9) compared to females (2.7). Among races/ethnicities represented by 20 or more survivors, Native American survivors had the highest mean number of children (2.9), followed by Hispanic survivors (2.8), and White (non-Hispanic) survivors (2.5).

Of 841 survivors with children, 47% (398) reported that their children were present during the most recent domestic violence incident; and 40.5% (341) during a past domestic violence incident.

Survivors reported children present in a greater proportion of domestic violence incidents where the survivor lived with their abuser (53%), than incidents where survivors did not live with their abuser (41%).

There was a negligible difference in annual median income between survivors with children present during a domestic violence incident ($12,000) and survivors where children were not present ($10,872).

9. Children abused

Of 841 children present at domestic violence incidents, 20% (167) were abused by the survivor's abuser. Most children were verbally abused/degraded (69%), physically attacked (32%), threatened that they or loved ones would be harmed or killed (20%), or physically restrained (17%). Seventeen percent of children were either held hostage (10%) or prevented from calling for help (7%). Eight percent of children were sexually abused, 6% threatened with a lethal weapon, 5% strangled, and 4% threatened that their pets would be harmed or killed.

10. Children Injured

Of 167 children present and abused in a domestic violence incident, 7% (12) were injured. Of 12 children injured, 3 (25%) required medical treatment. Of three children who required medical treatment, one obtained medical treatment.

11. Law Enforcement and Prosecution Involvement

Sixty percent of survivors reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement. Slightly more (64%) male survivors reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement than female survivors (60%).

Slightly more survivors with children (61%) than survivors without children (56%) reported their domestic violence incident to law enforcement. There was negligible difference in a survivor's likelihood of reporting to law enforcement by their number of children, as those survivors who reported to law enforcement had an average 2.7 children and those who did not report had an average 2.8 children.

When examined by race/ethnicity, among races/ethnicities with 20 or more survivors, there were negligible differences in the proportion who reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement. Slightly more Black and Native American survivors (67%, respectively) reported their incident to law enforcement, followed closely by survivors of “other” races (65%), White (non-Hispanic) survivors (61%) and Hispanic survivors (60%).

Of the 40% of survivors who never reported a domestic violence incident to law enforcement, only 38 reported the reason they never reported. The greatest number of survivors stated that they did not report because they were scared (19), followed by those who did not report because they believed that nothing would get done (6), and because they wanted to work out the relationship (5). See Table B.

Table B. Why Survivors Never Reported a Domestic Violence Incident to Law Enforcement

One-quarter (26%) of survivors reported that they had been stalked by the abuser in a recent or past domestic violence incident. Of these 285 stalking survivors, 21% (60) reported the stalking to law enforcement.

When stalking was examined by race/ethnicity, a greater proportion of Black survivors (58%) were stalked by their abuser, followed by survivors of “other” races (40%), Native American survivors (39%), Hispanic survivors (24%) and White (non-Hispanic) survivors (23%).

Half (49%) of domestic violence survivors obtained a protection order for the most recent domestic violence incident. Males (81%) were almost two times (1.8) more likely than females (46%) to obtain a protection order for the most recent domestic violence incident.

Of the 628 survivors involved in a prior domestic violence incident as an adult, 20% (125) obtained an order of protection. With regard to prior domestic violence events, more females (20%) than males (12%) reported obtaining a protection order.

Of the 628 survivors who had a prior domestic violence incident, 12% (77) pressed charges. More female survivors (13%) pressed charges for a prior domestic violence incident than male survivors (3%). The number of survivors who pressed charges was too few to do a valid analysis by gender, race, or income.

Case Dispositions and Sentencing

Of 77 survivors who pressed charges, the case dispositions were reported for 43. Of these cases, 58% obtained a conviction (51% prosecuted and found guilty, and 7% pled to a lesser charge), 30% of cases were dismissed, 5% of cases were acquitted, and in 7% of cases the offender was given a diversion program.

Of the 25 survivors who pressed charges and obtained a conviction, 23 (92%) received a sentence that included jail time. The case sentencing was reported in 14 of these cases. Over half (56%, 8) were sentenced to 3 months or less, 14% (2) were sentenced to 6 months, 21% (3) were sentenced 15-18 months, and 7% (1) to two years. The mean jail sentence was 7.2 months.

Leave/Stay History

Almost two-thirds (60%, 656) of survivors reported that they left a violent relationship at some time. Of these, one-third (32%, 212) reported that they returned.

Of 212 survivors who returned to their abuser, 101 reported why they returned. Most mentions for returning to their abuser include: returned to try to work it out (63), returned for the children (27), and returned because they were scared (15). See Table C.

Table C. Why Survivors Returned to a Violent Relationship They Left

When examined by survivor income, there was negligible difference in the annual median income of survivors who left a violent relationship at some time ($11,000) and those who did not leave ($10,872). Conversely, there was a greater in the median income of those who left and stayed away and those who left and returned: survivors who left a violent relationship and did not return had a median annual income $2,080 greater ($12,000) than those who left and returned ($9,920).

Of the 628 survivors who were involved in a prior domestic violence experience, 43% (268) reported that they live with an offender with whom they have a prior domestic violence incident.

When examined by income, survivors who live with an offender with whom they have a prior domestic violence experience had a median annual income $2400 less ($9,600) than survivors who do not live with an offender with whom they have a prior domestic violence experience ($12,000).

14. How Domestic Violence Survivors Hear About Service Providers

Of 969 survivors who reported how they heard about the domestic violence service provider agency, most (23%) were referred by law enforcement or were self/voluntary referred (20%). Twelve percent of survivors had used a service provider before, 9% were referred by a friend, 6% by a relative, and 5% by the adult court system. See Table D.

Appendix B. Survey of Violence Victimization Summary

I. INTRODUCTION

Nationally, victimization surveys such as the National Crime Victims Survey and the National Violence Against Women Survey capture more comprehensive estimates of crimes, and in particular, interpersonal violence crimes than that which is captured by law enforcement. While New Mexico law enforcement agencies have reported their incidents of domestic violence, intimate partner violence, stalking and sexual assault to the Central Repository, determining the rates of these crimes that were never reported to law enforcement was not possible. The long term goal to rectify this problem and make possible more accurate estimates on the prevalence and incidence of interpersonal violence in New Mexico was to conduct our own statewide victimization survey. To this end, in 2005 the Survey of Violence Victimization in New Mexico (SVV) was conducted, asking 2000 adult men and 2000 adult women about their experiences of violence. While all data captured from this survey will be analyzed over the course of time, several discouraging realities are clear from the preliminary findings of this survey:

1. The rates of domestic violence, intimate partner violence and stalking in New Mexico are staggering; and higher than national comparable rates found in the National Violence Against Women Survey (NVAWS), the most comprehensive victimization survey to date;
2. These interpersonal violence crimes are significantly under-reported to law enforcement;
3. There are significantly more victims of interpersonal violence than ever identified by law enforcement or service providers statewide, especially in the case of stalking;
4. There are significant co-morbidity and healthcare utilization associated with interpersonal violence; and
5. There are significant differences between males and females in the experience and adjudication of interpersonal violence crimes.

II. FINDINGS

A. Prevalence and Incidence of Interpersonal Violence

Fifteen percent or 1 in 7 adult males in New Mexico has been the victim of domestic violence in his lifetime, and 32% or 1 in 3 adult females. Unfortunately, there is no comparable national rate available, as only physical assault in general, is captured.

Ten percent or 1 in 10 adult males has been the victim of intimate partner violence in his lifetime compared to 7% nationally (NVAWS). One-quarter (25%) or 1 in 4 adult females has been the victim of intimate partner violence in her lifetime compared to 22% nationally (NVAWS).

Seven percent or 1 in 14 adult males has been the victim of stalking in his lifetime compared to 4% nationally (NVAWS). One-quarter (25%) or 1 in 4 females has been the victim of stalking in her lifetime compared to 12% nationally (NVAWS).

In 2005 in New Mexico, 28,256 cases of domestic violence were reported to law enforcement, and 18,778 victims identified, which is half (51%) of the victims identified (36,594) in the SVV in the same time period. Domestic violence victims reported an average of 5.5 victimizations each by their offender in the last year, resulting in an estimated 201,267 incidents of domestic violence in New Mexico in 2005.

In 2005, law enforcement identified 206 stalking victims. The SVV identified 17,177 stalking victims in the same time period (83 times as many). Stalking victims reported experiencing an average of 14.3 stalking incidents each in the last year, resulting in an estimated 245,631 incidents of stalking in New Mexico in 2005.

B. Interpersonal Violence and Injury

Each year, law enforcement and service providers report the number of domestic violence victims who are injured as a result of their assault. In 2005, over one-quarter (28%) of law enforcement reported domestic violence incidents resulted in victim injury; and service providers reported that one-third (34%) of the adult victims they served were injured. Findings from the SVV reported that a significant proportion of those who were ever victims of domestic violence (44%), intimate partner violence (47%) and stalking (44%) were injured in their assaults. However, until now, we have never known how many victims of interpersonal violence sought medical care as a result of their injuries. In New Mexico, no standardized or centralized reporting process exists for capturing information on how many victims of interpersonal violence seek medical care.

C. Interpersonal Violence and Healthcare Utilization

Findings from the SVV reveal that slightly over one-third of those in New Mexico who were ever victims of domestic violence (35%), intimate partner violence (37%) and stalking (38%) went for medical treatment as a result of their injuries.

What we do not know, is how much healthcare utilization occurs as a result of co-morbidity among interpersonal violence victims. For instance, the SVV revealed that adults who were ever victims of domestic violence (16.5%), intimate partner violence (17%) and stalking (16%), experienced serious, disabling injury at twice the rate of the non-victimized population (8%). Additionally, adults who were ever victims of domestic violence (12%), intimate partner violence (11%) and stalking (12%) were nearly four times more likely to suffer from one or more chronic mental health conditions than non-violence victims (3%).

D. Men as Victims and Offenders in Interpersonal Violence

It is widely reported nationally and locally that most victims of interpersonal violence are females and most offenders are males. What was not known, and is most interesting, is that most male victims of interpersonal violence are victimized by a male, as well. A significant proportion of males who were ever victims of stalking (51%), domestic violence (62%) and intimate partner violence (49%) were victimized by a male.

E. Relationship Between Victims and Offenders of Interpersonal Violence

Two-thirds (66%) of victims of intimate partner violence were assaulted by an ex-romantic partner. Most (33%) stalking victims were stalked by someone they knew but not a relative or ever a romantic interest. Stalking victims were equally likely to be stalked by a stranger (28%) as an ex-romantic partner (27.5%).

F. Interpersonal Violence Involving Sexual Assault

The proportion of New Mexico adults who were ever stalked and also sexually assaulted in their lifetimes (48%) was greater than those who were ever domestic violence victims and sexually assaulted (45%) and intimate partner violence victims and sexually assaulted (44%). However, in the course of one's lifetime, one could be stalked by one person and sexually assaulted by another. A better measure of the rate of sexual assault by the same individual who commits physical assault is obtained by examining intimate partner violence in the last 12 months. Among intimate partner violence victims last year, 11.5% reported being sexually assaulted by their intimate partner. More female intimate partner violence victims were sexually assaulted (13%) than male intimate partner violence victims (9%).

G. Gender Differences in Interpersonal Violence

1. Interpersonal Violence and Weapons

In 2005, over one-third (38%) of domestic violence incidents reported by law enforcement involved a weapon. However, with aggregate reporting instead of individual records, it was not possible to determine if there was a difference in the rate of weapon use among the interpersonal violence crimes or if there was a difference in weapon use based on the gender of the victim. The SVV revealed that 32% of domestic violence, 33% intimate partner violence and 31% stalking incidents involved a weapon; and each of these crimes was significantly more likely to involve a weapon if the victim was male, than female: domestic violence (36% males, 30% female); intimate partner violence (41% male, 30% female); and stalking (39% male, 29% female).

2. Interpersonal Violence and Restraining Orders

Over the last four years, the Central Repository has reported that the average number of protection or restraining orders issued by the District Courts was equal to roughly one-quarter (26%) of the number of domestic violence incidents reported to law enforcement. The SVV revealed similar results, as roughly one-quarter of domestic violence (21%), intimate partner violence (23%) and stalking (26%) victims obtained a restraining order. However, results from the SVV showed that female domestic violence and intimate partner violence victims were 2.5 times more likely to obtain a restraining order than their male counterparts. Similarly, female stalking victims were almost two times more likely than males to obtain a restraining order.

As a result of the SVV, we have our first measure of how many restraining orders are violated by the offender. Over half of all restraining orders in interpersonal violence crimes were violated: domestic violence (53.5%); intimate partner violence (56%); and stalking (51%); and restraining orders obtained by male intimate partner violence victims had the highest rate of violation (58%).

3. Interpersonal Violence Reported to Law Enforcement and Rate of Arrests

Over the last three years, the Central Repository reported that an average of 54% of domestic violence victims who went for help reported their victimization incident to law enforcement. The SVV revealed significant differences in the rate of reporting to law enforcement by the victims of the three types of interpersonal violence crimes: domestic violence (38%), intimate partner violence (41%), and stalking (34%). While one-third of stalking victims reported their victimization to law enforcement, there were fewer arrests for stalking (5.5%), than for domestic violence and intimate partner violence (17%, respectively). Moreover, in cases of domestic violence and intimate partner violence, more offender arrests were made when there was a female victim. With stalking crimes, the arrest rate was almost equal for crimes perpetrated against female (6%) and male victims (5%).

4. Interpersonal Violence and Criminal Charges

Domestic violence and intimate partner violence victims were more likely to file criminal charges (1 in 7, respectively) than stalking victims (1 in 17). Again, domestic violence and intimate partner violence female victims were two times more likely to file charges than male victims. Conversely, female and male victims of stalking were equally likely to file criminal charges.

H. Dispositions in Interpersonal Violence Crimes

Stalking offenders had the fewest outcomes with charges dropped (13%) compared to offenders of domestic violence (25%) and intimate partner violence (28%) offenders. Additionally, stalking offenders had the highest rate of guilty pleas or convictions (51%) over domestic violence offenders (38%) and intimate partner violence offenders (39%). Offenders of each interpersonal violence crime involving a female victim were significantly more likely to plead guilty than offenders of each with a male victim. The rate of acquittals for offenders of male domestic violence and intimate partner violence were 4 and 5 times, respectively, the rate of offender acquittals for these crimes with a female victim. Conversely, offenders of stalking with a male victim were much less likely to obtain an acquittal (<1%) than stalking offenders with a female victim (5%).

Roughly two-thirds of all those sentenced for interpersonal violence crimes were sentenced to jail or prison. The average sentence length for convicted domestic violence offenders (3.04 years) was longer than that of intimate partner violence offenders (2.7 years) and stalking offenders (1.97 years). Domestic violence and intimate partner violence offenders received a longer average sentence when the victim was a female, while stalking offenders received a slightly longer average sentence when the victim was a male. Offenders sentenced for stalking a male victim actually served a longer average sentence (2.0 years) than offenders sentenced for intimate partner violence with a male victim (1.5 years).
